SEC. 36. That from arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival [data corrected] a complete list of all the persons on board such vessel, whether as passengers or crew members, or otherwise, when and where they were respectively born, with the name of the country of which they are severally citizens or subjects, the country whence they last came, the port for which they have taken passage, the final destination of each person who is not a citizen or subject of the United States, whether each person has in his possession money, and if so how much, whether each person has been in the United States previously, and if so when and how long, whether each person has been in prison or almshouse or an institution for the insane or supported by charity, whether each person is married or single, the age, sex, and calling of each person, whether each person is able to read or write, the nationality, race, and last residence of each person, whether each person has a ticket through to his destination, and whether the transportation has been paid for by any corporation, association, society, municipality, or government, and whether each person has been deported, with the reasons therefor, and whether each person is in possession of $50 and, if not, how much less than $50 each person has in his possession, and whether each person is coming in pursuance of a previously existing contract, and if so, a true copy thereof shall be annexed to the list. The said list shall be subscribed by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or commanding officer of the vessel, who shall certify to the correctness of the entries therein contained at the time of the departure of the vessel from the last foreign port or place from which she sails. Such list shall be produced before the examining officer at the port of arrival when required by him, and the master, owner, agent, consignee, or commanding officer of such vessel shall, if required, make oath before a duly authorized officer to the truthfulness and correctness of the said list. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or commanding officer who shall refuse to deliver such list, or who shall refuse to subscribe and verify the same by oath when required, or who shall refuse to answer any question touching the information required in this section as to any person on board, or who shall make any false answer thereto, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense. The said list shall be primâ facie evidence of the truthfulness and correctness of the statements therein contained in any proceeding brought to enforce the penalties imposed by this section. The Attorney General may remit any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred under this section or any part thereof upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just and proper.

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, except an alien seaman who has been lawfully admitted for permanent residence, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained on board the vessel after the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examination officer), or has granted a landing certificate to such alien seaman, and such alien seaman shall be subject to deportation in accordance with the provisions of section 19 of this Act. The Attorney General is hereby authorized to prescribe rules and regulations governing the boarding of vessels for the purpose of inspecting alien seamen, and the period of detention on board vessels of such seamen before inspection or the granting of landing certificates. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel at any port in violation of this section, or who shall land at any port and remain in the United States beyond the period for which he is granted a landing certificate, or who shall be found on board any vessel after the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has refused to grant a landing certificate to such alien seaman, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act. The owner, agent, master, or consignee of any vessel bringing an alien seaman who is refused a landing certificate shall be liable to the Attorney General for the cost of maintenance of such alien seaman while he is detained at a hospital, and for the cost of his deportation, unless within five days after the refusal to grant a landing certificate such alien seaman is entered as a member of the crew of the vessel on which he arrived and the vessel departs from the United States with such alien seaman. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived, or on any subsequent vessel on which he may be employed, shall be deported at any time upon the warrant of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a master has failed to comply with any of the provisions of this section or any rules and regulations issued thereunder, or has connived or conspired with any seaman to secure his desertion or the desertion of any alien crewman, or has committed perjury in order to secure the issuance of a landing certificate for any seaman, he may, in addition to any other penalty provided by law, be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States during the period his vessel is in port, without having been granted a landing certificate or without having been issued a conditional landing certificate, or who shall land at any place other than that designated in his landing certificate, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless subsequently he shall have been granted by the Attorney General the right to land temporarily or permanently in the United States. Any alien seaman who, after having been granted a landing certificate, remains in the United States after the vessel on which he arrived has departed therefrom, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless subsequently he shall have been granted by the Attorney General the right to land temporarily or permanently in the United States.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that a master has failed to comply with any of the provisions of this section or any rules and regulations issued thereunder, or has connived or conspired with any seaman to secure his desertion or the desertion of any alien crewman, or has committed perjury in order to secure the issuance of a landing certificate for any seaman, he may, in addition to any other penalty provided by law, be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, or adjacent islands, or at any port of the United States on the Great Lakes which does not maintain a public hospital for the treatment of insane persons, shall be permitted to land in the United States except upon such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and approved by the Attorney General, after a finding that the sanitary facilities aboard such vessel are adequate to prevent the introduction into the United States of any of the communicable diseases specified in section 361 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 264), and that such vessel has complied with such conditions and with such sanitary regulations governing the operation of such vessels as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and approved by the Attorney General, for the prevention of the introduction of such diseases into the United States. Such conditions and regulations shall be prescribed and enforced by such officers of the United States Public Health Service as may be designated for the purpose by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and approved by the Attorney General, and such officers shall have the right of going and being on board any such vessel at any time for the purpose of boarding and inspecting the same and the crew thereof, and of control over the movement of the crew while in port, and of removing therefrom any alien seaman who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be suffering from any of the communicable diseases specified in section 361 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 264), and of detaining such alien seaman on board or at such place as the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare may designate. Any alien seaman who refuses to submit to such medical examination shall be deemed to be an alien who has been found to be afflicted with a communicable disease specified in section 361 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 264). Any alien seaman who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be afflicted with any such communicable disease shall be detained on board or at such place as the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare may designate, and such alien seaman shall not be permitted to land in the United States except under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and approved by the Attorney General, or pursuant to bond approved by the Attorney General, until such alien seaman is found to be no longer afflicted with a communicable disease specified in section 361 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 264), or is certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be no longer a source of danger of communicating such disease to others, and such alien seaman shall in any event be entitled to a hearing before a special inquiry officer prior to a finding that he is afflicted with a communicable disease specified in section 361 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 264). Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall remain in the United States longer than the period for which he was granted permission to land, shall be deported in the manner provided in section 241 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1251). Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall violate any of the provisions of this section, or who shall refuse or fail to comply with any of the conditions and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and approved by the Attorney General, for the admission of alien seamen, or who shall refuse or fail to remove any alien seaman from such vessel when ordered so to do by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, or who shall refuse or fail to detain any alien seaman on board or at such place as may be designated by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and approved by the Attorney General, or who shall refuse or fail to report and deliver any alien seaman who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be suffering from any of the communicable diseases specified in section 361 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 264), or who shall refuse or fail to pay the expenses of the removal of any alien seaman as provided in section 241 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1251), shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for each offense. Any vessel which shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each offense. The Attorney General may remit or mitigate any penalty provided for in this section upon such terms and conditions as he shall deem just. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel which has been ordered to be searched by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and approved by the Attorney General, pursuant to this section, until such search has been made and any penalty which may be imposed upon the master or owner thereof has been paid or secured to be paid to the satisfaction of the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port is located, or, if there be no collector at such port, then to the collector of customs of the customs district or port which is nearest to such port. Nothing in this section shall be construed to repeal, alter, or amend section 2 of the Act of February 16, 1903 (32 Stat. 826), as amended (8 U.S.C. 151), or to relieve any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel from any penalty or forfeiture imposed by that section or by any other provision of law.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival [late customhouse] the manifest of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the nationality, last permanent residence, whether they were terminally [sic] ticketed to destination, whether in possession of money and how much, whether going to join relatives or friends and if so what relatives or friends, whether having been in prison or almshouse or supported by charity, whether coming by reason of any offer, solicitation, promise, agreement, or assistance of any kind to perform labor or service of any kind, whether they have been previously deported or excluded and for what cause, whether they are coming to the United States to perform labor if so what kind, whether they have paid their own passage or whether it was paid by others, whether they are in possession of a ticket to their final destination, whether they have been in the United States before and if so when and for how long, whether they have any friends or relatives in the United States and if so what friends or relatives and where, whether they are married or single, the age, sex, and color of each alien, and such information as may be required by the Attorney General for the proper enforcement of the immigration laws. The master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel shall also report the name of each alien employed on such vessel during her stay in port, and shall not allow any such alien to land from such vessel unless and until a permit so to land has been granted by the immigration officer in charge of the port, and then only at the time and place designated in such permit. Any such master, agent, consignee, or owner who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such violation, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the application of this section to masters, agents, consignees, or owners of vessels touching at ports adjacent to the United States solely for the purpose of taking on board or discharging seamen destined to or brought from foreign territory adjacent to the United States, but such waiver shall not exempt masters, agents, consignees, or owners of vessels from the provisions relating to the payment of the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, or from any penalty or forfeiture incurred under the provisions of this section except as specifically provided by the Attorney General.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing an alien to the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada or Mexico, or from any place in Canada or Mexico at which such alien has not been legally admitted to enter the United States, shall be responsible for the proper maintenance of such alien while he remains in the United States, and for his deportation to the country whence he came, or to the country in which he resided before coming to Canada or Mexico, if he is deported under the provisions of this Act. Such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master shall deposit with the immigration officer at the port of arrival a bond in the sum of $300 for each such alien, conditioned for the payment of such expenses and for the performance of such duties as may be required by the Attorney General in order to carry out the provisions of this Act, or shall deposit with such immigration officer the sum of $300 for each such alien as a guaranty of the payment of such expenses and performance of such duties by such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master. (As amended by act of June 5, 1920, 41 Stat. 1008, 8 U. S. C. 146.)

(b) Any such master, agent, consignee, or owner who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this section or any rule or regulation made thereunder shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such refusal or neglect. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any fine imposed under the provisions of this section, or any part thereof, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and proper. (As amended by act of June 5, 1920, 41 Stat. 1008, 8 U. S. C. 147.)

(c) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after such treatment by the immigration officer of the Attorney General.

(d) Any such master, agent, consignee, or owner who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Such fine may be in the discretion of the Attorney General in the alternative imposed in addition to the penalty prescribed by subdivision (b) of this section, as amended, shall apply to all seamen who may be discharged in the United States from any vessel, whether such discharge occurs before or after the date of the approval of this Act. (As amended by act of June 5, 1920, 41 Stat. 1008, 8 U. S. C. 148.)

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws may be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because detained as witnesses in connection with the prosecution of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, or pending the final determination of the case of any such alien seaman who has been certified by the medical officer in charge of the port to be suffering from any mental disease or physical defect or infirmity of a character which will probably make him become a public charge, or who has been certified by the said medical officer as having a contagious disease, until such alien seaman shall have been certified by the said medical officer as no longer suffering from such mental disease or physical defect or infirmity, or such contagious disease, or pending the deportation of such alien seaman. (8 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada or Mexico any alien seaman (whether an immigrant or not) who is suffering from any mental disease or physical defect or infirmity of a character which will probably make him become a public charge, or who has been certified by the medical examiner as afflicted with any contagious disease, shall be required to detain such alien seaman on board the vessel at the time of inspection by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and such alien seaman shall not be allowed to land in the United States except temporarily for such medical treatment as the Attorney General may prescribe, or because detained as witnesses in connection with the prosecution of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, or pending the final determination of the case of any such alien seaman who has been certified by the said medical officer as having a contagious disease, or pending the deportation of such alien seaman. (As amended by act of June 5, 1920, 41 Stat. 1008, 8 U. S. C. 189.)

(b) Any such master, agent, consignee, or owner who shall refuse or neglect to detain on board his vessel any alien seaman required to be detained thereon under the provisions of this section, or who shall refuse or neglect to deport any such alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on any vessel about to depart from the United States to the country whence such alien seaman came to the United States, or to the country in which such alien seaman resided before coming to Canada or Mexico, shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such refusal or neglect. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any fine imposed under the provisions of this section, or any part thereof, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and proper: Provided, That no remission shall be granted of any fine imposed for the deportation of any such alien seaman unless the cost of such deportation shall be first paid to the collector of customs by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel which brought such alien seaman to the United States, or unless the cost of such deportation shall be first paid by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which such alien seaman shall have arrived in the United States to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers by the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000

SEC. 150.15. Limit of alien employees; when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the list required by section 36 of the immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 886; 8 U. S. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty on the deposit of bond or undertaking approved by the collector of customs in such sum as the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or subcharterer may elect, conditioned upon the payment of the penalty which may be imposed. While it remains unpaid, the vessel shall not be permitted or allowed to depart from any port of the United States except under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. (a) No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to obtain medical treatment, or hospitalization as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall pay a tax of $8 for each alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and inspection of such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or at any time thereafter, shall have been completed, and a tax of $8 for each alien seaman employed on such vessel at the time of departure from the United States, or at the time of the completion of the voyage if such seaman shall desert or shall die during the voyage. Such tax shall be paid to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such tax, or while the tax remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such tax, or of a bond with sufficient surety approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such tax, or any part thereof, if he shall be satisfied that the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival at the time of the inspection of such seaman, or the medical examiner, has certified that such seaman is suffering from a disease or mental or physical defect of such character that it is apparent that such seaman cannot be landed during the period within which he is likely to become a public charge, and that the sole reason for such seaman's becoming a public charge exists in such disease or defect, and that such seaman was not afflicted therewith prior to the inspection of such seaman by such immigration officer or the medical examiner at such port of arrival, and that such seaman is in possession of sufficient funds to defray the expenses of his maintenance pending the removal of such disease or defect, or that such seaman has been landed temporarily in the United States for medical treatment, or that such seaman is an essential member of the crew of the vessel and cannot be replaced without serious injury to the vessel or cargo, and that such seaman will be returned on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on some other vessel in the employ of the same interests, or that such seaman is a bona fide member of the crew of a vessel touching at a port or ports in the United States and is destined to a port or ports in foreign contiguous territory, and that such seaman will be returned on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on some other vessel in the employ of the same interests, or that such seaman is destined to a port or ports in foreign contiguous territory and that the vessel on which he arrived in the United States will depart for such port or ports within the period for which such seaman was granted shore leave, or that such seaman is destined to a port or ports in foreign contiguous territory and that the vessel on which he arrived in the United States will depart for such port or ports within the period for which such seaman was granted shore leave, and that such seaman will be returned on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on some other vessel in the employ of the same interests

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing as many and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and the destination through inland transportation lines so far as known, of all aliens who have been engaged in the ship's company, whether they are to be landed or not, and of all aliens who may be on board such vessel, stating the nationality, last residence, and calling (immediate cause of departure from country of last residence) of each alien, and such information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration as to the sex, marital condition, age, and occupation of each alien, whether he can read or write, whether he has a ticket, through or in part, to his ultimate destination, whether he has been in the United States before, whether he has been deported, and if so, when and why, whether he has a relative or friend in the United States, and if so, what relative or friend, and his name and complete address, whether in possession of money, and if so, how much, whether in possession of a railroad ticket or other means of transportation, whether coming by reason of any offer, solicitation, promise, agreement, or assistance of any kind from any source or by any person, and whether coming in pursuance of a previously formed intention to return after temporary absence, and such other relevant facts regarding the history, character, and identity of such aliens as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration. Such lists shall be delivered to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival before the vessel shall be admitted to entry, and the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall, if required by such officer, before the vessel shall be admitted to entry, make oath to the correctness of such lists in such form as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who shall refuse or neglect to deliver such lists, or any master who shall refuse to make oath to the same when required, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom information is required but not furnished, and no clearance shall be granted any such vessel while any of such penalties remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the case remains pending on appeal, upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detention for such examination as the Attorney General may prescribe, or for deportation, or pending final determination of rights to land, or while in the service on board thereof, and such seamen as may be employed on board any vessel during its stay in a port of the United States may be required by the immigration officer in charge at the port to remain on board while such vessel remains in port, unless sooner discharged, and such seamen shall be entered on the proper lists of incoming aliens. Upon the certification by the immigration officer in charge at any port of the inability of any alien seaman (master, officer, or member of crew) to land because of physical or mental disability or otherwise, the Commissioner General of Immigration may, in his discretion, permit the substitution of another alien seaman in lieu of the seaman certified. Such substitute shall be entered on the proper lists of incoming aliens.

SEC. 10. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, and liable to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has furnished such seaman (master inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to report such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman who did not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from which such vessel cleared as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport after requirement by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman owing to the length of time he would be required to remain in the United States awaiting such deportation, or that such seaman is destitute or likely to become a public charge, or that his deportation is otherwise undesirable, he may permit such seaman to land temporarily upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety, in such sum and upon such conditions as the Attorney General shall prescribe, to indemnify and save harmless the United States and all officers thereof from any charge for the support of such seaman. Upon the failure of the master to deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival any alien seaman for whom a bond has been given, or upon the failure of such seaman to depart from the United States within the time allowed by the Attorney General, the bond given for such seaman shall be declared forfeited and recovered. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the requirements of this section have been complied with.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival like manifests of all aliens employed on such vessel, showing the position they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and what country they respectively belong to, and the intended length of stay of each alien in the United States, and the last permanent foreign address of each alien, together with such other information as may be required by the Attorney General in the enforcement of the provisions of this Act relating to the exclusion and deportation of aliens. Such manifests shall be prepared on forms furnished by the Attorney General, and the information required shall be subscribed by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, and sworn to before the immigration officer at the port of arrival. Such officer is hereby empowered to administer such oath. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses to deliver such manifest, or who refuses or neglects to answer truthfully any such question relative to each alien employee as may be propounded by such immigration officer at the time of the departure of such vessel from the United States, shall pay to the United States a penalty of $10 for each alien employee with respect to whom such refusal or neglect occurs. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who knowingly makes any false statement in connection therewith shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Such manifests shall be open to the inspection of immigration officers and other officers of the United States at all reasonable times, and upon the refusal of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel to produce such manifests for inspection or to deport such seamen if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $300 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens irrespective of the date of their entry into the United States from any place outside thereof, or that we were deported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence to a failure to deport after reimbursement by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seamen he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained to such extent as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 201.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except from such foreign contiguous territory as may be specified by the medical examiner), to any port in the United States shall cause each alien seaman employed on such vessel (with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and prior to obtaining such seaman's discharge from such vessel) to be examined by such immigration officer or by one of his assistants, or by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, or by a civil surgeon specially appointed by the Attorney General to do so, and shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared pending the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or cancel such bond in the case of any alien seaman in respect of whom such fine has become due and payable, or may remit such fine in part or in whole. The Attorney General in his discretion shall refund to any person making a deposit under this section the sum deposited, less $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such fine occurs, upon such seaman's departure from the United States within one year from the date of such deposit.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be found after such manifest has been reported by the master of such vessel to be a stowaway, or shall be found to have come to the United States in violation of this section, as amended, shall be subject to all penalties which may be imposed by law upon aliens who come in violation of section 2, 1940.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any deportation of an alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman because he was employed on such vessel for a considerable period of time, or because the return of such seaman to a foreign contiguous territory or adjacent island would be unreasonable, or because such seaman has a family residing in the United States dependent upon him, or because such seaman has been long in the employment of the vessel on which he arrived, and such employment will be discontinued by reason of the completion of the voyage of such vessel, or because the vessel is to be laid up, or because such seaman is destitute or is likely to become a public charge, or for any other reason deportation would result in unusual hardship, the Attorney General may, in his discretion, permit such alien seaman to enter the United States temporarily for such period of time and under such conditions as he may prescribe, without being deemed thereby to have changed his status as an alien seaman: Provided, That such alien seaman is in possession of a valid passport and an unexpired immigration visa, if such visa is required by section 2 of the Act of May 22, 1918, as amended (40 Stat. 559, as amended by 54 Stat. 673; 8 U. S. C. 223), and regulations issued thereunder, unless such seaman is a citizen of Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, or the Republic of Panama, or an adjacent island under the jurisdiction of one of the countries mentioned, or unless such seaman is in possession of a valid unexpired nonimmigrant visa and passport duly viséed by a consular officer of the United States. Any such seaman who fails to depart from the United States within the period of time and under the conditions prescribed by the Attorney General shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 hereof, and in addition thereto shall be subject to the penalties prescribed by section 20 hereof. (43 Stat. 164–165, 58 Stat. 746; 8 U. S. C. 191 (a), 191 (c).)

I, A. Hamm, the Master, of the S.S. Elsie-Mae, do declare that the foregoing is a full and true list of all the crew promptly in said vessel from any port or place during the term therein mentioned, and I have noted the color of section 36 of the Act of February 5, 1917, extract from Title 8, Code of Federal Regulations, and color of sections 23 and 30, Act of May 26, 1924, supra, appear below.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman coming from any place outside the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by reason of illness, injury, or necessity, or to proceed in transit to a foreign country, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen, or in which he has a right of residence, if the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel in which he arrived shall furnish a bond in such sum, not exceeding $1,000, and with such sureties as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned that such alien seaman will depart from the United States within the period for which he is granted the privilege of landing, and will comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws and regulations in respect of such alien seaman, and will not become a public charge, and will pay the cost of maintenance and treatment of such alien seaman while in a hospital, and the cost of his burial in case of death, and will pay any fine imposed upon such alien seaman under the provisions of this section. Such bond shall be void as to any such alien seaman who is lawfully admitted for permanent residence in the United States, or who departs from the United States within the period for which he was granted the privilege of landing, and who pays the cost of his maintenance and treatment in a hospital, and the cost of his burial, if he shall die, and who pays any fine imposed upon him under the provisions of this section, and who establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he has complied with all the requirements of the immigration laws and regulations. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who become public charges within five years after landing. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such violation, and no clearance shall be granted to any vessel the master, agent, owner, or consignee of which shall have been convicted of violating the provisions of this section, or against which judgment for any penalty incurred hereunder shall be unsatisfied, unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that the violation occurred without the fault or negligence of such master, agent, owner, or consignee. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 18a.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman, (except inspection at all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), and has granted such seaman a landing certificate, or has granted such seaman temporary permission to land, or has granted clearance papers for such seaman, shall not permit such seaman to land in the United States from any place outside the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 18d.)

Attorney General is to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers for the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. Any person, as owner, agent, master, or consignee of any vessel, who shall willfully refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this section, or who shall connive at the landing of any alien seaman not provided for by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall land from any vessel at any port in the United States contrary to the provisions of this section, and who shall not depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived, and such person as owner, agent, master, or consignee of such vessel who shall fail to report the illegal landing of such alien seaman on the vessel's departure, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who become public charges within five years after landing.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, and such person as owner, agent, master, or consignee of such vessel cannot be effected, or that the immigration officer at the Attorney General to obtain the return of such alien seaman, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such person as owner, agent, master, or consignee of such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(48 Stat. 104-106, 28 Stat. 816; 8 U. S. C. 161 (a), 161 (c).

Any alien seaman (which term, when used in all cases shall include a personal applicant for admission) who shall remain in the United States after the vessel on which he arrived has departed therefrom for more than two days, or who fails to depart on any vessel upon which he may be ordered to depart under the provisions of this section, shall be deported in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. Any alien seaman who shall land temporarily for medical treatment shall be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $500 conditioned upon the departure of such alien seaman from the United States upon the completion of such medical treatment, unless such alien seaman is otherwise subject to the provisions of this section. Any alien seaman who shall land temporarily for medical treatment and who is certified by the United States Public Health Service to be suffering from a communicable disease of such a character that he would be refused admission into the United States if he were applying therefor, may be required by the immigration officer to remain on board the vessel or to proceed to a hospital designated by the Public Health Service officer for treatment and detention until such time as he is certified by said service as no longer constituting a menace to the health of the community, or is finally refused admission to the United States by the Board of Special Inquiry. Such certification shall not prevent the subsequent deportation of such alien pursuant to the provisions of section 19 hereof. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 hereof. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to comply with the requirements of this section or any lawful regulations issued in pursuance thereof, or who shall refuse or fail to detain any alien seaman on board when ordered so to do by an immigration officer, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver any such alien seaman to the custody of such officer for removal to a hospital or to a vessel for deportation, or who shall refuse or fail to pay the cost of the maintenance of such alien seaman while detained on board or in a hospital, or who shall refuse or fail to pay any fine imposed upon such alien seaman under the provisions of this section, shall be severally liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such default occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of any such question of law or fact, or while any such fine is unpaid, unless a sum sufficient to cover the same is deposited as security, or unless, in the case of a fine imposed upon the master, a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in such cases as he may deem proper, remit such fine or any part thereof upon the remission or payment of the cost of the maintenance of such alien seaman while detained in a hospital or elsewhere, and the cost of his deportation from the United States, or any part thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, in his discretion and upon such terms as he may deem just, mitigate such penalty or discharge the same upon the remission or payment of the cost of the maintenance of such alien seaman while detained in a hospital or elsewhere, and the cost of his deportation from the United States, or any part thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, in his discretion and upon such terms as he may deem just, mitigate such penalty or discharge the same upon the remission or payment of the cost of the maintenance of such alien seaman while detained in a hospital or elsewhere, and the cost of his deportation from the United States, or any part thereof.

SEC. 30. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner, and the boatswain, purser, or other officer in charge of the part of arrival, then confirming the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the position they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and the amount of wages advanced to each, and the amount then due him, and the nature and duration of his employment, and the intended length of his stay in the United States, and whether it is his intention to return to the country from which he came, or to proceed to some other country, and if so, to what country, and whether he has been in prison or almshouse or supported by charity, and whether he is a polygamist, and whether he has a ticket entitling him to transportation to his destination, and whether he has the amount of money required by this Act to be in his possession upon landing, and whether he has been registered and fingerprinted as required by this Act, and to produce each alien named for examination by the immigration officer at the time of inspection of the vessel, and to answer such other questions relative to such aliens as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and to present to the immigration officer at the time of inspection of the vessel a complete manifest of all the persons on board the vessel, which manifest shall be prepared in such manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and shall be signed by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel, and verified by his oath administered by the immigration officer at the time of inspection of the vessel. Such manifest shall show the full name, age, sex, and calling of each alien, the country of which he is a citizen or subject, the country from which he last came, and his intended place of permanent residence in the United States, whether he has a ticket through to such place, whether he has the amount of money required by this Act to be in his possession upon landing, whether he has been registered and fingerprinted as required by this Act, and such other information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Such manifest shall be prepared in duplicate, one copy to be delivered to the immigration officer at the time of inspection of the vessel, and the other copy to be delivered to the customs officer granting clearance to the vessel. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver to the immigration officer at the time of inspection of the vessel a complete manifest, and to answer truthfully all questions touching the information required to be contained in such manifest, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver to the immigration officer at the time of inspection of the vessel any alien employed on such vessel, or who shall refuse or fail to detain on board any alien when ordered so to do by the immigration officer, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver any such alien to the custody of such officer for removal to a hospital or to a vessel for deportation, or who shall refuse or fail to pay the cost of the maintenance of such alien while detained on board or in a hospital, or who shall refuse or fail to pay any fine imposed upon such alien under the provisions of this section, shall be severally liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such default occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of any such question of law or fact, or while any such fine is unpaid, unless a sum sufficient to cover the same is deposited as security, or unless, in the case of a fine imposed upon the master, a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, in his discretion and upon such terms as he may deem just, mitigate such penalty or discharge the same upon the remission or payment of the cost of the maintenance of such alien seaman while detained in a hospital or elsewhere, and the cost of his deportation from the United States, or any part thereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart after readmittance by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of any alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be cleared while such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to the medical lieutenant, or lieutenant (junior grade) or ensign in the Medical Corps of the Public Health Service, or assistant surgeon of the Coast Guard, duly designated by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the purpose of passing upon the case, or for the purpose of medical treatment, or because of an emergency, or for the purpose of performing shore leave as provided in section 20 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889): 8 U. S. C. 1171, upon bond (unless waived) in such amount not exceeding $500 as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned upon the return of such alien to the vessel on which he arrived or to a vessel of the same line at the time of her departure from the United States, unless such alien is prevented by illness or other cause beyond his control. Before any such alien is granted shore leave, he shall be given a careful physical examination by one or more medical officers of the United States Public Health Service, designated for the purpose by the medical officer in charge of the port, or if there be no medical officer in charge of the port, then by a medical officer designated for the purpose by the Secretary of Labor. Such examination shall be conducted at the expense of the vessel on which the alien arrived. Unless a certificate is issued by the medical officer that the alien is not suffering from any of the diseases or mental defects set forth in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 875): 8 U. S. C. 141, upon the payment of the prescribed tax and the filing of the bond, the alien shall be granted shore leave by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival for a period not to exceed five days, and may be extended in the discretion of the Commissioner of Immigration for additional periods of five days each, upon the recommendation of the medical officer in charge of the port. Shore leave may be granted to any alien crewman employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside thereof, notwithstanding the fact that the vessel may not depart from such port within the period of time prescribed by the regulations for the departure of vessels, if the master or agent of the vessel shall furnish a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing from the master or agent of the vessel, and upon the recommendation of the medical officer in charge of the port, or, if a medical officer be not present at the port, upon such evidence as he may require, permit any alien crewman employed on board such vessel to be treated in a hospital designated by the Attorney General for the treatment of aliens, at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, pending the decision as to the cause of illness and the place of deportation. Any alien crewman who has been granted shore leave and who fails to return to the vessel on which he arrived or to another vessel of the same line within the period of time prescribed by the regulations for the departure of such vessel, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889): 8 U. S. C. 155, 156, unless the failure of such alien to return to the vessel was beyond his control and he shall have reported to the commissioner of immigration at the port of arrival within such period of time after the departure of the vessel as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. Any alien crewman who has been granted shore leave and who shall fail to return to the vessel on which he arrived or to another vessel of the same line within the period of time prescribed by the regulations for the departure of such vessel, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889): 8 U. S. C. 155, 156, unless the failure of such alien to return to the vessel was beyond his control and he shall have reported to the commissioner of immigration at the port of arrival within such period of time after the departure of the vessel as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. Any alien crewman who has been granted shore leave, or who has been permitted to land temporarily under bond, and who shall thereafter be employed on board any vessel, shall, upon the demand of the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, be required to deposit a sum sufficient in the opinion of such officer to pay the cost of his passage to the country whence he came, or to secure the same by bond, unless such alien is in possession of a sufficient sum of money for the purpose. Any such deposit may be remitted to the master of the vessel on which such alien arrived, upon the production of the certificate of the consular officer who issued the passport of such alien that he has been admitted to the country of his nationality or last residence, or upon the production of such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the Secretary of Labor that the purposes of this section have been fulfilled. Any such deposit, if not remitted as provided herein, shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as a head tax, and any bond given to secure the payment thereof may be sued for and recovered by the United States in a civil action. Any such deposit may be remitted to the master of the vessel on which the alien arrived, upon the production of the certificate of the consular officer who issued the passport of such alien that he has been admitted to the country of his nationality or last residence, or upon the production of such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the Secretary of Labor that the purposes of this section have been fulfilled. Any such deposit, if not remitted as provided herein, shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as a head tax, and any bond given to secure the payment thereof may be sued for and recovered by the United States in a civil action. Any alien crewman who has been granted shore leave, or who has been permitted to land temporarily under bond, and who shall thereafter be employed on board any vessel, shall, upon the demand of the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, be required to deposit a sum sufficient in the opinion of such officer to pay the cost of his passage to the country whence he came, or to secure the same by bond, unless such alien is in possession of a sufficient sum of money for the purpose. Any such deposit may be remitted to the master of the vessel on which such alien arrived, upon the production of the certificate of the consular officer who issued the passport of such alien that he has been admitted to the country of his nationality or last residence, or upon the production of such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the Secretary of Labor that the purposes of this section have been fulfilled. Any such deposit, if not remitted as provided herein, shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as a head tax, and any bond given to secure the payment thereof may be sued for and recovered by the United States in a civil action. Any alien crewman who has been granted shore leave, or who has been permitted to land temporarily under bond, and who shall thereafter be employed on board any vessel, shall, upon the demand of the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, be required to deposit a sum sufficient in the opinion of such officer to pay the cost of his passage to the country whence he came, or to secure the same by bond, unless such alien is in possession of a sufficient sum of money for the purpose. Any such deposit may be remitted to the master of the vessel on which such alien arrived, upon the production of the certificate of the consular officer who issued the passport of such alien that he has been admitted to the country of his nationality or last residence, or upon the production of such other evidence as may be satisfactory to the Secretary of Labor that the purposes of this section have been fulfilled. Any such deposit, if not remitted as provided herein, shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as a head tax, and any bond given to secure the payment thereof may be sued for and recovered by the United States in a civil action.

All cases in which such penalty is incurred shall be reported immediately by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to the Attorney General, who shall give notice thereof to the master of the vessel. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by reason of the necessity of obtaining supplies or repairing the vessel, or for such other cause as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, and then only under such regulations as he may prescribe, and no such alien seaman shall be employed on any vessel arriving at a port of the United States unless there is on board such vessel at the time of her departure from each port in the United States at which she shall arrive a sufficient number of seamen, not including masters, pilots, licensed engineers, and surgeons, who have been employed on board for the period of the voyage next preceding, and who are citizens of the United States or aliens lawfully admitted to the United States and who have resided therein for not less than three years next preceding the date of such departure, to perform such work as may be required of them during the next voyage, and who shall be carried on the articles of the vessel by the master thereof when such vessel leaves port, or who, if they have become unable to perform their duties, have been left behind in the discretion of the master, and who have been certified by the consular officer of the United States at the port where such seamen were left behind as destitute, sick, or injured, and unable to proceed with the vessel without danger to her or to the health of her crew, and who have been reported to the Commissioner of Immigration at the port of arrival as required by law. Any seaman who refuses without reasonable cause to proceed to sea with the vessel upon which he is employed, or any seaman who deserts, or any stowaway, shall be liable to the payment of a penalty of $50, or imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months, or both, and the cost of his maintenance while in custody pending the departure of the vessel, which penalty may be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor, or his representative designated for the purpose, upon the remission or mitigation of any penalty imposed upon the master of the vessel. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the decision as to remission or mitigation of such penalty, but clearance may be granted upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty with a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, or of a bond with sufficient surety to cover such penalty, or of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty and the probable costs of the case. Penalties incurred under this section may be recovered in the district in which the vessel may arrive or depart, or in which the master or owner may be found, or in which the seaman may be found who deserted the vessel or was left behind. The Commissioner of Immigration may, in his discretion, pay the reasonable expenses of the return of any such seaman to the country whence he came, or to such other country as may be willing to receive him, in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, and the cost of his maintenance while in custody pending the departure of the vessel, not to exceed $1 per day, may be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any seaman who has been employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States and who, without the consent of the master, leaves the vessel at such port, or who refuses without reasonable cause to proceed to sea with the vessel upon which he shall have been employed, or who is found on board after the vessel is ready to proceed to sea, shall be liable to a penalty of $50

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by special permission of the Secretary of Labor, under such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe, but not from such vessel, and it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel to detain on board any such alien seaman pending the determination of his right to land, and to cause him to be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of this Act to the country to which he belongs or from which he came to the United States, when required so to do by the Attorney General, unless such seaman is entitled to land temporarily under the provisions of section 3 of this Act. Any such seaman who lands in violation of this section, and any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who fails to detain any such seaman on board his vessel after notice that such seaman is not entitled to land, or who fails to cause the deportation of any such seaman as required, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Any fine imposed under this section shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by libel in rem. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel violating any provision of this section.

Sec. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing an alien (except an alien crewman) to a port of the United States shall be required to take from such alien and deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a manifest and such other lists or descriptions as may be required by regulations prescribed by the Attorney General, which manifest, lists, or descriptions shall be in such form and contain such information as the Attorney General may prescribe as to the name, nationality, last permanent residence, final destination, and such other items of information regarding each alien as may be required by the Attorney General. Any such owner, agent, consignee, or master failing to deliver such manifest, lists, or descriptions, or delivering an incomplete manifest, list, or description, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. The Attorney General may, under such regulations as he may prescribe, require masters of vessels arriving at ports of the United States from foreign ports to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a list containing the name of all persons on board the vessel, whether as crew members or passengers, the object and length of their intended stay in the United States, and such information as to their nationality, residence, and identity as may be necessary to enforce the immigration laws. Such list shall be prepared at such time before the departure of the vessel from the foreign port as the Attorney General may prescribe, and shall be certified by the master of the vessel to be correct. Any master who fails to deliver such list, or who refuses to permit any immigrant inspector to come aboard for the purpose of inspecting the vessel and the list, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000. The Attorney General may refuse clearance to any vessel the master of which has failed to deliver such list, or has refused to permit such inspection, until a list satisfactory to the Attorney General has been delivered.

(b) Every alien arriving at a seaport of the United States from any foreign port, unless in possession of a permit to land temporarily issued by the Secretary of Labor, shall be detained on board or at such port of arrival pending inspection by the immigrant inspectors. The immigrant inspectors shall order any such alien to be detained who is found to be afflicted with any contagious disease that would make the alien excludable under the immigration laws, or who is certified by the examining surgeon to be afflicted with a mental disease or defect which would make the alien excludable under the immigration laws, or who is found excludable under any other provision of the immigration laws. Any such alien ordered detained shall be deported as provided by section 19 of this Act, unless he is admitted in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, upon certification by the Public Health Service that the alien is not afflicted with a contagious disease that would make him excludable under the immigration laws, or that he has been certified by the examining surgeon that the mental disease or defect with which he was afflicted is not such as would make him excludable under the immigration laws, or that he is not excludable under any other provision of the immigration laws. Any alien who has been ordered detained may appeal to a board of special inquiry, which shall have power to affirm or modify the order of detention. Pending the final determination of the case of any alien detained for special inquiry under the provisions of this section, such alien shall be returned to the detention quarters provided for the detention of aliens certified for special inquiry under the provisions of section 16 of this Act, whenever such detention quarters are available, as near as may be to the place where such alien has been ordered detained, and such alien shall be subject to such safeguards as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Pending the final determination of the case of any alien detained for special inquiry under the provisions of this section, such alien shall be returned to the detention quarters provided for the detention of aliens certified for special inquiry under the provisions of section 16 of this Act, whenever such detention quarters are available, as near as may be to the place where such alien has been ordered detained, and such alien shall be subject to such safeguards as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Pending the final determination of the case of any alien detained for special inquiry under the provisions of this section, such alien shall be returned to the detention quarters provided for the detention of aliens certified for special inquiry under the provisions of section 16 of this Act, whenever such detention quarters are available, as near as may be to the place where such alien has been ordered detained, and such alien shall be subject to such safeguards as may be required by the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a transportation company has refused or failed to remove any alien ordered excluded and deported on any vessel or aircraft owned or operated by such company, when and as required under the provisions of this section or of section 19 of this Act, or has refused or failed to detain any alien on board any vessel or aircraft when ordered by the Attorney General so to do, such company shall pay to the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien ordered deported from each vessel or aircraft, which sum shall be a lien upon the vessel or aircraft, and may be recovered by suit or proceeding against the owners thereof, or against the master or agent of such vessel or aircraft, in any district in which any such owner, master, or agent may be found. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, remit or mitigate any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred or imposed under the provisions of this section upon such terms and conditions as he shall deem reasonable and just: Provided, That application for remission or mitigation shall be made within one year from the date of the final decision imposing such fine, penalty, or forfeiture. Fines imposed under this section shall be in addition to any other penalty prescribed by this Act.

(d) Every alien arrived at a seaport of the United States shall be examined by an immigrant inspector, unless examination is waived under such rules as the Attorney General may prescribe. The Attorney General shall have power to enter into contracts with transportation lines for the inspection abroad of passengers, coming to the United States, and their baggage. Such inspection shall precede the departure of the vessel from the foreign port, unless the Attorney General shall by special rule otherwise provide. Inspection under such contracts may be performed by officers of the transportation lines, who shall be subject to such rules and regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe. Any such officer who shall be guilty of extortion, bribery, conspiracy, or unlawful discrimination in the performance of his duties shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than one year. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the Attorney General to perform the services specified herein at any port where, in his judgment, such services are adequately performed by officers of the United States Government or by officials of the local government.

(e) Any person, including the master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel, who brings to the United States any alien who has been refused a visa by a consular officer, or who has been certified by the examining surgeon as afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, shall be fined not more than $1,000 and imprisoned not more than one year.

(f) Any alien who shall enter the United States in violation of this section shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act.

(g) Any person who shall bring into the United States any alien not duly admissible under the provisions of this Act, or who shall bring into the United States any alien for the purpose of assisting him to enter unlawfully, or who shall harbor, conceal, or protect from discovery any such alien after his unlawful entry into the United States, knowing or having reason to know of his unlawful entry into the United States, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for each and every such alien so brought in, concealed, harbored, or protected.

(h) Any person who shall knowingly aid or assist any alien to enter the United States in violation of law, or who shall conceal, harbor, or shield from detection any such alien in any place, including any building or any means of transportation, or who shall attempt to do any of the foregoing, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for each and every such alien so concealed, harbored, or protected.

(i) Any person who shall willfully and knowingly make any false statement in an application for a visa, or for the purpose of obtaining admission to the United States for himself or any other person, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(j) Any person who shall forge, counterfeit, alter, or falsely make any immigration visa, permit, or other document required for entry into the United States, or who shall utter, use, attempt to use, possess, obtain, accept, or receive any such immigration visa, permit, or other document, knowing it to be forged, counterfeited, altered, or falsely made, or to have been procured by means of any false claim or statement, or to have been otherwise procured by fraud or unlawfully obtained, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(k) Any person who shall knowingly make any false statement or claim that he is a citizen of the United States in order to obtain employment, whether for the Government of the United States or any department thereof or any private employer, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(l) Any person who shall knowingly make any false statement or claim that he is a citizen of the United States in order to vote in any election held solely or partly for the purpose of electing a Representative or Delegate to the Congress, or a President or Vice President, or both, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $2,000 or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below, should be prepared on blank forms obtained by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration officer at the port of arrival. Each container must be marked on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of alien seamen, the master is requested (see I-425) likewise to indicate on the manifest, opposite the name of each alien seaman, the letter "S".

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That alien masters of vessels arriving at ports in the United States from any foreign port to which they shall belong, and alien seamen employed on such vessels arriving at ports of the United States from any foreign port to which they do not belong, and alien masters of vessels and alien seamen employed on such vessels departing from ports of the United States, shall be subject to the provisions of this section and of section 33 of this Act, and shall be entered and inspected by the immigrant inspectors at the port of arrival, but only one inspection fee shall be collected from any one vessel. The list or manifest of aliens required to be delivered by the master to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival shall contain the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, whether they intend to land in the United States or not, and shall state the nationality, last permanent residence, calling, and intended destination of each alien seaman who intends to land in the United States, and the port at which he shall have embarked, and the vessel on which he arrived in the United States. Such list or manifest shall also state the name, birth date and place, last permanent residence, and destination of each alien who has been admitted to the United States from any foreign port as a temporary visitor for business or pleasure, and the port at which he was admitted. Such list or manifest shall be prepared at the time of the departure of the vessel from each foreign port, and shall be corrected to the time of the arrival of the vessel at the port of entry. Such list or manifest shall be signed by the master or commanding officer and by the first or second officer of the vessel, who shall make oath before the immigrant inspector to the truth of the statements therein contained. Such list or manifest shall be prepared in quadruplicate, and the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival shall retain one copy, deliver one copy to the collector of customs, and one copy to the commissioner of immigration at the port of arrival, and one copy shall be delivered to the commissioner of immigration at the port of departure before the vessel leaves. Blanks for the making of such lists or manifests shall be furnished by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization to masters of vessels sailing from ports in foreign countries to ports in the United States, and masters of such vessels shall be given a reasonable supply of such blanks at the time of the departure of their vessels from foreign ports. Any master or commanding officer of any such vessel who shall refuse or neglect to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival the list or manifest required by this section, or who shall refuse or neglect to answer truthfully to the best of his knowledge any question touching the matters specified in this section concerning each alien on board his vessel, whether a passenger or one of the crew, or concerning the intended landing of any such alien, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense. The Attorney General may remit any fine, or any part of a bond, incurred or exacted under the provisions of this section, except fines exacted for bringing into the United States any person afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, and may mitigate or cancel any forfeiture of vessel or other penalty incurred or exacted under the provisions of this section, except as to persons who have been convicted of violating the provisions of section 37 of this Act, relating to the importation of persons for the purpose of prostitution or for any other immoral purpose, whenever in his opinion the ends of justice shall seem to require such remission, mitigation, or cancellation, and may impose such terms and conditions in connection therewith as he may deem proper. The Attorney General may prescribe rules and regulations governing the remission, mitigation, or cancellation of such penalties, and may delegate the power and authority vested in him by this section to such officers of the Department of Labor as he may designate. (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 136.)

SEC. 37. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside the United States (except from foreign contiguous territory) any alien who does not have in his possession the documents required by the immigration laws and regulations issued thereunder to enter the United States, or who has been found to be afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities described in section 3 of this Act, or who is otherwise excludable, except for lack of visa, shall be required to take back to the place from which brought any such alien who may be excluded from admission to the United States by the immigration officers, such transportation to be furnished and paid for by the master, commanding officer, owner, agent, charterer, consignee, or consignor of the vessel in which such alien arrived. Pending the departure of any such alien, he may be detained on board the vessel or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer, but not subject to the payment of any tax, fee, or charge. If any such alien is afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities described in section 3 of this Act, the cost of his detention shall be borne by the master, commanding officer, owner, agent, charterer, consignee, or consignor of the vessel in which he arrived. Any such alien who has been admitted to the United States shall, if found to be within one year thereafter in the United States from causes existing prior to his admission, be returned in the manner provided in this section for the return of aliens who were excluded from admission. The cost of the maintenance of any such alien seaman during the period he is detained on board or at a place designated by the immigration officer, and of his return to the country to which he belongs or country from which he came, shall be paid by the master, commanding officer, owner, agent, charterer, consignee, or consignor of the vessel on which he arrived, and a lien is hereby imposed upon the vessel for the cost of such maintenance and return. Clearance may be withheld or refused and granted upon application to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization or his authorized representative. Any person who shall fail to comply with any requirement of this section or who shall violate any of the provisions thereof shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each violation, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. Any vessel which shall depart from any port of the United States in violation of this section may be refused clearance by the collector of customs, and if any such vessel shall depart without clearance, the collector of customs may call on the Secretary of the Treasury to issue instructions to prevent such departure by force if necessary. (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 140.)

(b) Every alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at the United States from any place outside the United States, except seamen employed on such vessels touching at ports of the United States solely in continuing their journey to foreign ports, shall be detained on board or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer at the port of arrival pending the departure of the vessel from the United States, unless sooner landed into the custody of the State or municipality in which the port of arrival is located for the purpose of prosecution for any crime or offense committed in the United States or the deportation of such alien seaman. Such alien seaman shall be subject to such physical examination by the medical officers of the United States Public Health Service as may be practicable, but no such alien seaman shall be certified to a hospital for treatment or be detained for observation longer than is necessary for the proper execution of the immigration laws. Such alien seaman shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 hereof, and the cost of his maintenance while detained and of his deportation shall be borne by the master, commanding officer, owner, agent, charterer, consignee, or consignor of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States. (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 140a.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States is impracticable or unreasonable, or that the cost of maintenance of such vessel while detained is excessive, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be detained on account of the inability to deport such alien seaman unless the vessel is about to depart from the United States without the permission of the immigration officer in charge of the port, or is unseaworthy, or the master refuses to comply with the request to receive such alien seaman on board, or the owner, agent, consignee, or consignor of the vessel refuses or fails to furnish the master sufficient funds for the maintenance of such alien seaman during the period of detention, or refuses or fails to pay the cost of transportation of such alien seaman when the vessel is ready to depart, or unless the vessel is required by other provisions of law to remain in port. (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 140b.)

(d) Every alien seaman who shall desert while his vessel is in port shall be deported as provided in section 19 hereof, unless he shall have been lawfully admitted to the United States or shall have become a bona fide resident thereof. Such deportation shall be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspec-

SEC. 150.15 Limit of alien contributors; when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof has filed a bond in the amount of $10 for each alien concerning whom certain facts are not disclosed to a duly authorized immigration officer at the time of the vessel's departure, or in the event such fact is subsequently ascertained, within a period of 6 months thereafter, to the effect that any such alien has been permitted to land in the United States in violation of the immigration laws. Such bond shall be conditioned to indemnify the United States for the payment of any amount which may be required to be paid by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel to any alien contributing to the support of any such alien who may become a public charge within 2 years after the date of his entry into the United States. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the question of liability of the vessel to the payment of such bond, in the event such fact is unknown, while it remains unpaid; but shall not be permitted or granted in any case in which the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall have been notified by the Attorney General that such bond is required. Clearance may be granted without the filing of such bond upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine. (38 Stat. 888, 891; 8 U.S.C. 1221.)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the control, detention, and removal of such alien seamen. Any alien seaman employed on any such vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical officer of the service), who shall be found to be afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities for the exclusion of which provision is made in this Act, shall be certified for special treatment or observation, or both, at the expense of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which he arrives, unless in the opinion of the immigration officer in charge of the port such certification is unnecessary. Any alien seaman certified for special treatment or observation, or both, shall be detained on board or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge of the port, and the cost of such detention and of his maintenance shall be borne by the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which he arrived. Any such alien seaman who shall have been certified for special treatment or observation, or both, and who shall refuse to be detained as provided herein, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. Any such alien seaman who shall desert while his vessel is in any port of the United States shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless he shall be found by the Secretary of Labor to have been unable to secure employment on board the vessel on which he arrived, or to have been compelled to desert by reason of cruelty practiced upon him or by reason of the unseaworthiness of such vessel, and shall be entitled to a certificate to that effect from the Secretary of Labor. Any such alien seaman who shall have been granted shore leave while his vessel was in port shall not be refused a subsequent shore leave solely because of his inability to produce his certificate of identification, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given notice in writing to the immigration officer in charge of the port that such certificate has been withheld from the alien seaman for cause. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U.S.C. 160.)

(a) Except that an alien seaman did not become ineligible for admission solely because he was afflicted with a mental disease or defect which originated or existed before the date of his last arrival if such disease or defect has been cured or adequately controlled so that the alien seaman is not likely to become a public charge or to endanger the welfare of the United States.

(b) Except that an alien seaman who was otherwise admissible at the time of his last arrival may be admitted if he was in possession of a valid unexpired immigrant visa which was issued to him on the basis of an unrevoked petition approved to accord him a status under section 201(b) or a preference status under section 203(a)(3) or (6) of this Act, and he is found upon inspection by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to be clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to such status.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that it was impracticable for the owner or the master of such vessel on which the alien seaman arrived to detain him on board or at such place until the departure of such vessel, such alien seaman may be permitted to land temporarily and to depart from the United States at any time within 6 months after his arrival without being regarded as having entered the United States for any purpose under the immigration laws. The Attorney General may require such alien seaman to deposit with the immigration officer at the port of arrival a sum sufficient to cover the cost of his passage to the country to which he is destined as determined by the master of the vessel on which he arrived, and such cost may be collected from any moneys found in the possession of the alien seaman. Any such alien seaman who shall fail to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or in lieu thereof on such other vessel or in such other manner as the Attorney General may direct shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 of this Act. Any such alien seaman who shall have been granted shore leave while his vessel was in port shall not be refused a subsequent shore leave solely because of his inability to produce his certificate of identification, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given notice in writing to the immigration officer in charge of the port that such certificate has been withheld from the alien seaman for cause. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U.S.C. 161.)

(d) Except that an alien seaman who was otherwise admissible at the time of his last arrival may be admitted if he was in possession of a valid unexpired immigrant visa which was issued to him on the basis of an unrevoked petition approved to accord him a status under section 201(b) or a preference status under section 203(a)(3) or (6) of this Act, and he is found upon inspection by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to be clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to such status.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that it was impracticable for the owner or the master of such vessel on which the alien seaman arrived as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver for removal any alien seaman who was rejected by the master of such vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or from any place from which such vessel sailed directly to the United States, or any alien seaman who was employed on board such vessel and who was discharged in the United States without the consent of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived, or any alien seaman who was employed on board such vessel and who deserted while in the United States, or any alien seaman who was employed on board such vessel and who remained in the United States after such vessel had departed without a permit from the immigration officer in charge of the port. Any alien seaman who shall have been granted shore leave and who shall fail to return to the vessel or depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U.S.C. 161.)

(a) Except that an alien seaman who was otherwise admissible at the time of his last arrival may be admitted if he was in possession of a valid unexpired immigrant visa which was issued to him on the basis of an unrevoked petition approved to accord him a status under section 201(b) or a preference status under section 203(a)(3) or (6) of this Act, and he is found upon inspection by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to be clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to such status.

(b) Except that an alien seaman who was otherwise admissible at the time of his last arrival may be admitted if he was in possession of a valid unexpired immigrant visa which was issued to him on the basis of an unrevoked petition approved to accord him a status under section 201(b) or a preference status under section 203(a)(3) or (6) of this Act, and he is found upon inspection by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to be clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to such status.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that it was impracticable for the owner or the master of such vessel on which the alien seaman arrived as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver for removal any alien seaman who was rejected by the master of such vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or from any place from which such vessel sailed directly to the United States, or any alien seaman who was employed on board such vessel and who deserted while in the United States, or any alien seaman who was employed on board such vessel and who remained in the United States after such vessel had departed without a permit from the immigration officer in charge of the port. Any alien seaman who shall have been granted shore leave and who shall fail to return to the vessel or depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U.S.C. 161.) (a) (b) (c) (d) (e)

SEC. 36. [T]hat upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, owner, consignee, or agent thereof to deliver to the customs officer in charge of the port of arrival, or such other officer as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury, a manifest and such other documents or information in such manner and form as the Secretary may require, which manifest the boatmen shall verify by their oaths at the time of the vessel's entry. Such manifest shall be in the port of arrival, or such other port as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury, and shall show the names of all persons on board such vessel, their nationalities, residences, and destinations, so far as known, and such other information as may be required by the Secretary of the Treasury. Such manifest shall be prepared and sworn to by the master of such vessel, or by the person who shall have charge of such vessel during the time of the departure of such vessel from the last foreign port or place in which she shall have been. Such manifest shall be in such form and contain such information as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe, and shall show specifically the marks and numbers of all trunks, packages, or parcels of baggage on board such vessel, the names of the persons to whom the same purport to belong, and the ports at which such persons have embarked and at which they intend to disembark. Such manifest shall be delivered to the customs officer in charge of the port of arrival before any of the passengers shall have been landed therefrom, and before any of the baggage shall have been unloaded or discharged from such vessel, except in such cases as may be otherwise provided for by the Secretary of the Treasury. Such manifest shall be certified by the master of such vessel to be correct to the best of his knowledge and belief, and shall be in such form and contain such information as the Secretary of the Treasury may require. Any master who shall fail to deliver such manifest at the time of the arrival of the vessel at the port of entry, or who shall fail to produce such manifest when demanded by the proper officer, or who shall refuse to answer truthfully any such question touching the same as may be propounded to him by any such officer, or who shall fail to answer truthfully any question touching the information required to be stated in such manifest which may be propounded to him by any such officer, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each and every such offense, and the vessel of which he was master at the time of the arrival of the vessel at the port of entry shall be liable for the payment of such penalty, and may be seized and proceeded against by libel in the district court of the United States for the district in which such port of entry is situated, and may be detained by the collector of customs until such penalty is paid or secured to be paid, or such vessel may be sold to pay the same, in the discretion of the court. Any person who shall knowingly and willfully make any false statement in relation to the manifest required by this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, operator, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 146.)

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, operator, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof shall be permitted to land in all cases shall furnish a personal appearance examination by the medical examiner). Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien assumed to remain in respect of whom such failure occurs. Any vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such liability upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty in not exceeding $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such penalty accrues, upon such terms as the Attorney General in the discretion shall think proper. This section as amended shall apply to all vessels arriving after the effective date of this Act.

(b) Every such alien seaman who shall not appear upon the customs manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 of this Act, upon the order of the Attorney General, unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that such alien seaman is unable to procure a passport from the country to which he belongs or from which he came to the United States, or that there is other sufficient reason why such deportation should not be effected, and reports such facts to the Attorney General with a recommendation that such alien seaman be granted permission to land temporarily in the United States. Upon the favorable recommendation of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, the Attorney General may, in his discretion, permit such alien seaman to land temporarily in the United States under a suitable bond, for such period of time and under such regulations as he may prescribe, without being deemed thereby to have changed his status as an alien seaman.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States will cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be charged against the vessel in an amount greater than the cost of the passage of such alien seaman to the port of embarkation nearest to the place of his residence, unless such vessel exchanges lines with another vessel, in which case such vessel shall be liable for the cost of passage to the port of embarkation of the vessel with which the exchange was made. Such deportation shall be effected in the manner provided in section 19 of this Act, upon the order of the Attorney General, unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that such alien seaman is unable to procure a passport from the country to which he belongs or from which he came to the United States, or that there is other sufficient reason why such deportation should not be effected, and reports such facts to the Attorney General with a recommendation that such alien seaman be granted permission to land temporarily in the United States under a suitable bond, for such period of time and under such regulations as he may prescribe, without being deemed thereby to have changed his status as an alien seaman.

SEC. 38. [That aliens arriving] at any seaport in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to detain in the locality where the vessel arrives all such aliens pending the result of the examinations provided for in section 16 of this Act, and to provide for the maintenance of all such aliens while so detained, and to deliver to the proper immigration officer at the time of the arrival of such vessel a complete list of all such aliens, or cause such list to be delivered to such officer, containing such information in regard to each of such aliens as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, and such owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel shall furnish to the immigration officers at the port of arrival such facilities within the vessel for the detention, maintenance, and care of such aliens before inspection as the Commissioner General of Immigration may prescribe, and shall furnish such information in regard to the same as may be required by him. Upon the refusal or neglect of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel to comply with the provisions of this section or any lawful rule or regulation made by the Commissioner General of Immigration pursuant thereto, he shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which such vessel may arrive a sum not exceeding $300 for each alien in respect of whom such default occurs, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such sum, or while the payment thereof is delayed by appeal, or while such sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover the same or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, remit fines and cancel bonds imposed or exacted under the provisions of this section, or any part thereof, whenever he may be satisfied that any such fine, bond, or part thereof was improperly or unjustly imposed, or that a mitigated fine should be imposed.

(b) Every alien arriving at a seaport in the United States from any foreign port or place, if destined to any place in the United States, shall be subject to such medical examination at the port of arrival as may be prescribed by the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, and such certificates as may be required by him shall be issued in each case before the alien is admitted into the United States. Such examination shall be made by boards of special inspectors appointed by the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, and the medical officer in charge at the port of arrival shall be the chairman of the board. Such boards shall have authority to order any alien who may be certified by them to be afflicted with any such disease or physical or mental defect or disability as may be specified by the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service with the approval of the Secretary of Labor to be detained for further observation and special inquiry. Any alien who refuses to submit to such medical examination shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. Such boards shall certify the name and such facts concerning each alien so detained for observation as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, and the physician in charge of the United States Public Health Service hospital where such alien is detained shall certify the cause for detaining any such alien and the length of time he should be detained for treatment. Any alien certified as afflicted with any such disease or physical or mental defect or disability may appeal, in such manner and under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, from the decision of the board to a special board of review, which shall be composed of the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, and the Solicitor of the Department of Labor, and the decision of such special board of review shall be final as to the rejection of such alien. Such special board of review may reverse the decision of any such board of special inspectors in whole or in part as to the certification of any alien for disease or mental or physical defect or disability, and may admit such alien temporarily for treatment, or may order his admission into the United States, or may affirm the certification of such board of special inspectors. Such special board of review may call for such additional testimony or information as it may deem necessary to enable it to reach a decision. Pending the result of the appeal, the alien may be detained at such port or in such hospital as the Commissioner General of Immigration may direct. The conclusions of such special board of review shall be certified to the commanding officer at the port of arrival, and shall be entered of record and a copy thereof furnished to the alien appellant. The Commissioner General of Immigration shall have the power to establish such boards of special inspectors and such boards of review at such ports as may be necessary for the proper and efficient performance of the duties imposed by this section, and may make all rules and regulations necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention or examination of any alien in transit through the United States from a foreign port to a foreign port who is in possession of a through ticket and is not entitled to admission to the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of any alien cannot be effected by reason of the failure or refusal of the government of the country to which such alien belongs or of the consular officer or agent thereof to issue a passport to such alien or to accept such alien as a returning resident, or by reason of the refusal of transportation companies to receive such alien, or for any other reason, he may cause such alien to be kept under the supervision of the Department of Labor at such place and in such manner as he may prescribe, and may require such alien to report to such officer or agent from time to time and to submit himself to such physical examination as may be directed. Any such alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to report or submit to such examination shall be subject to a fine of not more than $1,000 or to imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

(d) Any alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to depart from the United States within a period of six months from the date of any final order of deportation made against him pursuant to law, or who shall willfully fail or refuse to present himself for or submit to such physical examination as may be required by any officer of the Department of Labor in pursuance of the provisions of this section, or who shall willfully fail or refuse to submit to such medical treatment as may be required by the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory or adjacent islands, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained to assist investigations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (44 Stat. 1014; 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory or adjacent islands shall be responsible for the proper conduct while on board and the safekeeping of each alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry has granted such alien seaman permission to land or has delivered him to the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel for return on board. Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners) arriving into the United States from any foreign port or place shall report the name of such alien seaman to the immigration officer at the port of entry and shall detain such seaman on board after such inspection or such immigration officer at the port of entry has failed to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to report such seaman if required by such immigration officer at the port of arrival and inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners). Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry has granted such alien seaman permission to land or has delivered him to the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel for return on board shall deposit with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, when such failure is due to sickness or accident and not to the fault of the master, agent, consignee, or owner.

(b) Upon the arrival in the United States of any alien seaman who has been employed on board any vessel, it shall be the duty of the master of such vessel to report the name of such alien seaman to the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and such alien seaman shall not be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained to assist investigations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory or adjacent islands shall be responsible for the proper conduct while on board and the safekeeping of each alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry has granted such alien seaman permission to land or has delivered him to the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel for return on board. Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners) arriving into the United States from any foreign port or place shall report the name of such alien seaman to the immigration officer at the port of entry and shall detain such seaman on board after such inspection or such immigration officer at the port of arrival has failed to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to report such seaman if required by such immigration officer at the port of arrival and inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners). Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry has granted such alien seaman permission to land or has delivered him to the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel for return on board shall deposit with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance until the deposit required by the preceding clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, when such failure is due to sickness or accident and not to the fault of the master, agent, consignee, or owner.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN CREWMEN

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States may be permitted to land temporarily for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or hospitalization if such medical treatment or hospitalization is not available on board, or for the purpose of visiting a consular officer for the purpose of obtaining a visa, or for any other reason deemed sufficient by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, but such alien shall be deported in the same manner as provided for aliens crewmen employed on vessels arriving at ports of the United States: Provided, That such alien seaman (whether in possession of a valid passport and visa or not) may be granted a landing permit to enable such seaman to report on board his vessel or other vessel on which he may be employed, or to depart from the United States, under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, but no such alien seaman shall be granted a landing permit (or other documentation authorizing him to land temporarily) if the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has reason to believe that such alien seaman belongs to any of the classes described in paragraphs (27) or (28) of section 212(a) of this Act, unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, after consultation with the Secretary of State, has determined that the admission into the United States of such alien seaman would not be prejudicial to the interests or safety of the United States. The Attorney General may promulgate rules to prescribe the conditions under which such seamen may be granted landing permits, the period of time they may be permitted to remain in the United States, and the ports or places at which they may enter and depart from the United States. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States at the expiration of the period of time granted him by the Attorney General or who violates any of the conditions of his landing permit shall be taken into custody and deported in accordance with the provisions of sections 241 and 242 of this Act. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States at the expiration of the period of time granted him by the Attorney General or who violates any of the conditions of his landing permit shall be considered to be an alien who entered the United States without inspection at the time and place of his last arrival and may be taken into custody at any time and deported in accordance with the provisions of section 242 of this Act. Any alien seaman who is employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States and who is not lawfully entitled to enter the United States shall be detained on board or at such port of arrival pending inspection by an immigration officer unless such alien seaman is granted a landing permit or is permitted by the Attorney General, his agent, the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port is located, or the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival to be treated in accordance with the provisions of section 252 of this Act. Any alien seaman who is employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States and who is not lawfully entitled to enter the United States, but who has been permitted to land temporarily, shall be required as a condition of such landing that adequate security be furnished to insure that such alien seaman will not become a public charge and that he will be available for deportation when required. Such security may be furnished by the owner of the vessel or by such other person as may be acceptable to the Attorney General. The Attorney General may require any such owner, master, agent, consignee, or person furnishing security to deposit with the Attorney General a sum sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance of such alien seaman pending the completion of his case, and such owner, master, agent, consignee, or person furnishing security may petition the Attorney General for remission or refund of such deposit if such alien seaman is granted permanent admission to the United States or after he has been removed from the United States at the expense of such owner, master, agent, consignee, or person furnishing security. Any such owner, master, agent, consignee, or person furnishing security who fails to deposit sufficient funds to cover the cost of maintenance of such alien seaman pending the completion of his case, or who fails to remove such alien seaman from the United States when required so to do, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine or penalty, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may allow withdrawal of sums deposited to insure compliance with the provisions of this section as amended shall apply to all beneficiaries of such deposits heretofore or hereafter made.

(b) Every alien crewman, in transit through the United States in pursuance of his employment on board a vessel arriving at a port of the United States, who is not in possession of a valid passport and a valid nonimmigrant visa, or who is not within the purview of section 212(d)(4), or who is not in possession of a valid nonimmigrant visa issued pursuant to section 212(d)(7), or who is not in possession of a valid transportation document issued by the Attorney General, shall be deported in accordance with the provisions of sections 241 and 242 of this Act. Any alien crewman who fails to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or who fails to depart from the United States on any other vessel on which he may be employed, shall be deported in accordance with the provisions of sections 241 and 242 of this Act.

(c) Every alien crewman, in transit through the United States in pursuance of his employment on board a vessel arriving at a port of the United States, who is not in possession of a valid passport and a valid nonimmigrant visa, or who is not within the purview of section 212(d)(4), or who is not in possession of a valid nonimmigrant visa issued pursuant to section 212(d)(7), or who is not in possession of a valid transportation document issued by the Attorney General, shall be deported in accordance with the provisions of sections 241 and 242 of this Act. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 10. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board a vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory or adjacent island, or arriving in the United States at any seaport other than the seaport at which he was originally granted a conditional permit to land in the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily and under such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the duration of the vessel's stay in port, for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or relief, or for such other reasons as may be approved by the Secretary of Labor. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States, except temporarily and under such regulations, or who shall land temporarily and fail to secure from the immigration officer in charge a subsequent permit to land, or who shall fail to report on board when the vessel on which he arrived is ready to depart from the United States, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be presumed to have landed for permanent residence and may be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States at any seaport other than the seaport at which he was originally granted a conditional permit to land, and who shall be found more than thirty days after the vessel on which he arrived has departed from the United States to have been employed on board any vessel while in the United States, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act to the country whence he came to the United States, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he was unable to depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or that he was employed on board such vessel with the consent of the master and for the sole purpose of working his passage to a port in the country whence he came to the United States, or to some other country willing to receive him, and that he has not remained in the United States for a longer period than was necessary for the purpose of so working his passage.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada, Mexico, Newfoundland, Cuba, Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, the Canal Zone, Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Guatemala, Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador, Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Brazil, Dutch Guiana, British Guiana, or the French West Indies, shall be required to report the arrival of such vessel and the number of aliens on board, and to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a manifest containing such information as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Such manifest shall be prepared and delivered in such form and manner and at such time and place as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Any master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee who shall refuse or fail to deliver such manifest shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers by the collector of customs or other officer authorized to perform such function by the Secretary of Labor until the master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee of such vessel has delivered the manifest required by this section, or has satisfied the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that the manifest will be promptly delivered by the master of such vessel to the immigration officer at the port at which the vessel will next touch in the United States, or to the collector of customs at the customs district in which the port of arrival is located if there is no immigration officer at the port of arrival, and has deposited with the collector of customs a bond in such amount, not exceeding $2,000 for each person listed in the manifest who is not in possession of a valid passport, as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned upon the delivery of such manifest. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, refund any part of any bond required by this section upon the production of the certificate of discharge of any alien specified in the manifest, or other satisfactory evidence that such alien has departed from the United States, or has become a citizen of the United States, or has died, or has been otherwise accounted for to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(b) Any master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee who shall refuse or fail to deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival the list or manifest required by subdivision (a) of this section, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver such list or manifest at the time of departure of the vessel from the last port outside the United States, or who shall refuse or fail to pay the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, or any part thereof, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a master has failed to comply with the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section or with any regulations made thereunder, or that any master has connived or conspired to bring, or has brought, into the United States any alien not entitled to enter the United States, or that a master has refused or failed to detain any alien on board his vessel when ordered by an immigration officer, he may, in addition to any other penalty prescribed by this Act, refuse clearance papers to such vessel until the matter has been investigated and determined by the Secretary of Labor, and pending such investigation may require the master to deposit with the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $300 for each alien concerning whom such violation is charged, to be applied to the payment of any fine which may be imposed upon the master for such violation, and to the payment of the cost of detaining such alien on board or elsewhere pending the decision of the Secretary of Labor as to whether such alien may be permitted to land temporarily or finally or is to be deported. Clearance papers may be refused under the provisions of this section to any vessel which has been allowed clearance papers on a previous occasion and which has left port without such papers, and the master of such vessel may be required to deposit a sum not exceeding $300 to guard against such refusal of clearance papers. Any sum deposited with the collector of customs under the provisions of this section shall be refunded to the master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee who deposited it, or his legal representative, upon the production of a certificate from the Secretary of Labor that the sum deposited is not liable to be forfeited to the United States.

(d) Every alien seaman to whom any of the provisions of this section apply who shall land in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, shall be required to land only at the port at which the vessel on which he arrived is ready to depart from the United States, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he was unable to depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or that he was employed on board such vessel with the consent of the master and for the sole purpose of working his passage to the port at which he landed, and that he has not remained in the United States for a longer period than was necessary for the purpose of so working his passage. Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act to the country whence he came to the United States, or to some other country willing to receive him, and shall be presumed to have landed for permanent residence and may be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States at any seaport other than the seaport at which he was originally granted a conditional permit to land, and who shall be found more than thirty days after the vessel on which he arrived has departed from the United States to have been employed on board any vessel while in the United States, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act to the country whence he came to the United States, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he was unable to depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or that he was employed on board such vessel with the consent of the master and for the sole purpose of working his passage to a port in the country whence he came to the United States, or to some other country willing to receive him, and that he has not remained in the United States for a longer period than was necessary for the purpose of so working his passage.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel or which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of a mental or physical disability, he may permit the alien seaman to remain in the United States for the period of such disability, but such seaman shall not be granted citizenship while such disability exists.

(f) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act.

(g) The Secretary of Labor may prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

(h) The section as amended shall apply to all seamen arriving in the United States on or after July 1, 1924.

(i) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act to the country whence he came to the United States, or to some other country willing to receive him, and shall be presumed to have landed for permanent residence and may be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States at any seaport other than the seaport at which he was originally granted a conditional permit to land, and who shall be found more than thirty days after the vessel on which he arrived has departed from the United States to have been employed on board any vessel while in the United States, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act to the country whence he came to the United States, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he was unable to depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or that he was employed on board such vessel with the consent of the master and for the sole purpose of working his passage to a port in the country whence he came to the United States, or to some other country willing to receive him, and that he has not remained in the United States for a longer period than was necessary for the purpose of so working his passage.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel, arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, who knowingly brings to or lands in the United States by any means any alien not duly admitted by an immigrant inspector at the port of arrival or who lands at any time or place other than as designated by immigration officers, or who aids any alien to enter the United States by any means, shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each alien so landed or attempted to be landed, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

(b) Any alien who shall enter the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by law. Any alien who shall be convicted of violating the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both, and may be arrested upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, or any person duly authorized by him, without process, and may be taken into custody and returned to the country whence he came, at any time within five years after entry.

The penalties provided by this section shall not apply to any person who shall bring in any alien who is excluded from admission under the provisions of this section because afflicted with a contagious disease, or who has been convicted of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, unless such person shall have been informed in writing by the Secretary of Labor, or by some person duly authorized by him, prior to the departure of such alien for the United States, that such alien is excluded by this section because afflicted with a contagious disease, or because he has been convicted of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, as the case may be.

Any alien who shall be convicted of violating the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both, and may be arrested upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, or any person duly authorized by him, without process, and may be taken into custody and returned to the country whence he came, at any time within five years after entry.

(e) Any alien who shall enter the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by law. Any alien who shall be convicted of violating the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both, and may be arrested upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, or any person duly authorized by him, without process, and may be taken into custody and returned to the country whence he came, at any time within five years after entry, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act. Any person who shall bring into the United States any alien who is excluded by this section because afflicted with a contagious disease, or who has been convicted of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, or who is an anarchist, or who believes in or advocates the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of the United States, or of all forms of law, or who disbelieves in or is opposed to organized government, or who advocates the assassination of public officials, or who advocates or teaches the unlawful destruction of property, or who is a member of or affiliates with any organization entertaining, advocating, or teaching any of the doctrines above specified, or who is a polygamist, or who practices polygamy or believes in the practice of polygamy, or who is a prostitute or who procures or attempts to procure or to import prostitutes or women or girls for the purpose of prostitution, or who has been deported under any of the provisions of this section, or who is a person likely to become a public charge, or who has been excluded from admission and deported before the passage of this Act, and who shall thereafter return to or enter the United States, or who shall attempt to do so, may be fined not more than $1,000 for each alien so landed or attempted to be landed, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, whether entitled to enter the United States or not, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily, for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty or emergency, or for the purpose of obtaining other seamen to ship in the place of those left behind, or for the purpose of rejoining the vessel on board which he arrived, or on board some other vessel, and in no case, except in the event of shipwreck or other casualty, for a longer period than the vessel on board which he arrived or the vessel in which he is to ship is to remain in port, or for a longer period than twenty days, unless in the case of a vessel which is to remain in port more than twenty days the period of detention may be extended by the Secretary of Labor for a period not exceeding twenty days in order to prevent undue hardship. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States temporarily for the purpose of obtaining other seamen to ship in the place of those left behind, or for the purpose of rejoining the vessel on board which he arrived, or on board some other vessel, shall be required to deposit with the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of a tax of $10 per month for each month or fraction thereof during which he remains in the United States, and a tax of $10 per month for each month or fraction thereof during which he remains in the United States after the period for which he was admitted, which taxes shall be paid to the collector of customs. The Secretary of Labor shall prescribe rules and regulations governing the admission of alien seamen under this section, and the payment of taxes and the refunding of bonds required hereby. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States temporarily for the purpose of obtaining other seamen to ship in the place of those left behind, or for the purpose of rejoining the vessel on board which he arrived, or on board some other vessel, and who shall fail to return to the vessel in which he arrived or to the vessel in which he is to ship, or who shall fail to pay the taxes required by this section, shall be deported in the manner provided by law. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel bringing an alien seaman to the United States who fails to deport such alien seaman on board the vessel in which he arrived or on board some other vessel, or who fails to pay the taxes required by this section, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the payment of such taxes, or while the bond required by this section is pending, except that clearance papers may be granted prior to the payment of taxes upon the deposit of the amount thereof with the collector of customs. The Attorney General shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, and shall appoint such officers and employees in addition to those now authorized by law as may be necessary to perform the duties imposed upon him by this section. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section, or any regulation made thereunder, for which a penalty is not otherwise prescribed, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 for each offense, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both.

(f) Any alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States as required by this section shall not thereafter be admitted to the United States, nor shall any alien seaman who has been required by this section to deposit the amount of taxes required thereby be admitted to the United States unless such taxes have been paid and such bond has been duly canceled, except that clearance may be granted to such alien seaman by the collector of customs at the request of the master of the vessel on which he arrived, or on which he is to ship, upon the deposit of the amount of such taxes.

(g) The Attorney General may, in his discretion, refund any tax paid by an alien seaman who has been required to pay taxes under this section, if such alien seaman has been employed on board a vessel engaged in the foreign commerce of the United States for a period sufficient, under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, to entitle such alien seaman to a refund of such taxes.

(h) The Secretary of Labor shall prescribe rules and regulations governing the admission of alien seamen under this section, and the payment of taxes and the refunding of bonds required hereby. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States temporarily for the purpose of obtaining other seamen to ship in the place of those left behind, or for the purpose of rejoining the vessel on board which he arrived, or on board some other vessel, shall be required to deposit with the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of a tax of $10 per month for each month or fraction thereof during which he remains in the United States after the period for which he was admitted, which taxes shall be paid to the collector of customs.

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place in transit to the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness which arose subsequent to the vessel's arrival in the United States, except for the purpose of performing duty as a member of the crew of such vessel during her next departure therefrom, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily and upon immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and subject to such conditions as the Attorney General may prescribe for the purpose of safeguarding the welfare of such alien seaman, and shall be deported in the same manner as provided in the case of other aliens ordered deported. Notice to the master or commanding officer of the vessel on which any alien seaman shall arrive in the United States shall be given by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and such master or commanding officer shall be responsible for the proper care while on board vessel and removal of such alien seaman when ordered deported. Any such master or commanding officer who shall refuse to receive any such alien seaman on board his vessel or who shall fail properly to care for and remove such alien seaman shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, in cases where it appears to him proper, remit fines incurred and cancel bonds or other undertakings prescribed for the purposes of this section. Nothing in this section shall be construed to amend, repeal, or affect any other provisions of the immigration laws of the United States or to authorize the admission into the United States of any alien who is excluded from admission by any such provisions except as specifically authorized herein. The Attorney General may at any time cancel any landing permit granted solely to the seaman who has been granted such permit. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States during the period of time his vessel is in port and who shall remain therein for a period of time longer than that allowed by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, or who shall land at any place in the United States other than the port of arrival at which he shall have been granted a landing permit, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been granted visitors' visas and who remain in the United States for a longer time than permitted. Any alien seaman who shall depart from the United States shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been granted visitors' visas and who depart from the United States while the temporary visas granted them are in force. Any alien seaman who shall fail to depart from the United States upon the expiration of the period of time allowed by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, or upon the revocation of the permit granted him, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been granted visitors' visas and who remain in the United States for a longer time than permitted. Any alien seaman who shall depart from the United States while the temporary visa granted him is in force shall be deported upon the return of such alien seaman to the United States unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that he has complied with the conditions upon the performance of which the temporary visa was granted him, and that his failure to depart was occasioned by circumstances over which he had no control

SEC. 150.15 Limit of alien employment; waiver authorized; validity of waiver. (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, no alien admitted to the United States as a nonimmigrant under section 101(a)(15)(A) or (G) of the Act shall accept employment unless specifically authorized by the Department of State to accept employment. Any such employment authorized by the Department of State is limited to the employer and the location or locality specified by the Department of State. Any alien who desires employment authorization shall apply to the Department of State on Form I-566. Any alien who accepts unauthorized employment shall be subject to deportation.

(b) The Department of State may authorize employment for such period of time as it deems necessary for any alien described in section 101(a)(15)(A) or (G) of the Act. Unless otherwise specifically provided by the Department of State, the employment authorization of any alien who changes his employer or place of employment ceases upon such change. Any alien who desires to continue employment with the same employer after the period of employment originally authorized has expired, or who desires to change his employer or place of employment, shall apply to the Department of State for a new employment authorization. Such application shall be made at least 30 days before the expiration of the period of employment originally authorized, unless the alien establishes to the satisfaction of the Department of State that it was impossible for him to make application at least 30 days before the expiration of such period.

Any such alien who fails to depart during the period of voluntary departure granted him, or who violates any condition under which voluntary departure is granted, may be deported in accordance with law without further notice or hearing.

(d) Any alien who accepts unauthorized employment prior to the time he is authorized by the Department of State to accept employment shall be presumed to have entered the United States on the date he commenced such employment, unless the alien shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General by clear, convincing, and unequivocal evidence that he entered the United States prior to such date.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty requiring his services in connection therewith, or unless specifically certified by the Attorney General that no citizen of the United States is available for employment on board such vessel in the port at which she arrives or in case of vessels touching only at ports on the Great Lakes or the St. Lawrence River above Montreal, Canada, that no citizen of the United States is available who is acceptable to the master or owner of such vessel. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 155). Any master or owner of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman who is required by this section to be certified before he can land in the United States, who shall land such alien seaman in the United States without having obtained such certification, or who shall refuse or fail to detain such alien seaman on board his vessel after such certification is withdrawn by the Attorney General as provided in this section, shall pay to the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance from any place outside the United States to the United States while any fine imposed upon the master or owner thereof under this section remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of any question raised by the master or owner as to the liability to pay such fine, or as to the amount thereof, upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, or may direct the return of any deposit made to secure the payment thereof, if it appears to his satisfaction that such fine was incurred without fault on the part of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel, and that clearance should not be withheld or the deposit retained pending the remission of such fine. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention of any vessel on account of the failure of any alien seaman employed thereon to report for duty on board at the time of departure of such vessel from any port of the United States if the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall have notified the immigration officer at the port of departure at least twenty-four hours before the departure of such vessel of the intention to depart without such alien seaman and such officer has failed to place a substitute seaman on board in lieu of such alien seaman. Any alien seaman who fails to report for duty on board any vessel on which he is employed at the time of departure of such vessel from any port of the United States, unless he establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was due to illness or other cause beyond his control, shall be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended, and shall be ineligible to receive any certificate in his behalf from the Attorney General entitling him to enter the United States for a period of one year thereafter, unless prior to the date of application for such certificate he shall have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence. Any person who knowingly violates any of the provisions of this section, or who knowingly aids, abets, counsels, commands, induces, or procures the violation by any alien seaman of any of the provisions of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, or departing from the United States for any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty requiring his services in connection therewith, or unless specifically certified by the Attorney General that no citizen of the United States is available for employment on board such vessel in the port at which she arrives or in case of vessels touching only at ports on the Great Lakes or the St. Lawrence River above Montreal, Canada, that no citizen of the United States is available who is acceptable to the master or owner of such vessel. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 155). Any master or owner of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman who is required by this section to be certified before he can land in the United States, who shall land such alien seaman in the United States without having obtained such certification, or who shall refuse or fail to detain such alien seaman on board his vessel after such certification is withdrawn by the Attorney General as provided in this section, shall pay to the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance from any place outside the United States to the United States while any fine imposed upon the master or owner thereof under this section remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of any question raised by the master or owner as to the liability to pay such fine, or as to the amount thereof, upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, or may direct the return of any deposit made to secure the payment thereof, if it appears to his satisfaction that such fine was incurred without fault on the part of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel, and that clearance should not be withheld or the deposit retained pending the remission of such fine. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention of any vessel on account of the failure of any alien seaman employed thereon to report for duty on board at the time of departure of such vessel from any port of the United States if the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall have notified the immigration officer at the port of departure at least twenty-four hours before the departure of such vessel of the intention to depart without such alien seaman and such officer has failed to place a substitute seaman on board in lieu of such alien seaman. Any alien seaman who fails to report for duty on board any vessel on which he is employed at the time of departure of such vessel from any port of the United States, unless he establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was due to illness or other cause beyond his control, shall be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended, and shall be ineligible to receive any certificate in his behalf from the Attorney General entitling him to enter the United States for a period of one year thereafter, unless prior to the date of application for such certificate he shall have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence. Any person who knowingly violates any of the provisions of this section, or who knowingly aids, abets, counsels, commands, induces, or procures the violation by any alien seaman of any of the provisions of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The section, as amended, shall apply to all seamen arriving in the United States on or after the effective date hereof. (Section 111 of the Act of June 2, 1940)

(B) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States during the period of his service on board any vessel shall be granted shore leave by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, for a period not to exceed five days, coterminous with the period of such vessel's stay in port, regardless of the nationality of such vessel, or the foreign port at which such alien seaman may have joined such vessel, or the destination of such vessel upon departure from the United States, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall have reported to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that such alien seaman has deserted or will desert such vessel, or unless such immigration officer has reason to believe that such alien seaman intends to violate the immigration laws of the United States, or unless such alien seaman is otherwise ineligible under the immigration laws to enter the United States. Such shore leave may be revoked by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival at any time within the period of five days and such alien seaman may be required to return on board his vessel at any time prior to the departure of such vessel from the United States. Any such alien seaman who fails to return on board his vessel at the time of departure of such vessel from any port of the United States, unless he establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was due to illness or other cause beyond his control, shall be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended, and shall be ineligible to receive any certificate in his behalf from the Attorney General entitling him to enter the United States for a period of one year thereafter, unless prior to the date of application for such certificate he shall have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence. SEC. 8. [Text about vessels in the United States from any foreign port or place if shall be the duty of the owner, agent, master, or commander, or consignee of any such vessel, before the entry of the same, or within such time after entry as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, and before the departure of such vessel from the port where she may be, to deliver to the collector of customs of the district in which such vessel may be entered a manifest and such additional copies thereof and such other documents or papers relating to the cargo, passengers, and crew of such vessel as the Secretary of the Treasury may require, and to make oath to the truth of such manifest and such other documents and papers before the collector or any other officer authorized to administer oaths. Such manifest shall be in such form and contain such information as the Secretary of the Treasury may require to enable him to carry the provisions of this Act into effect, and to prevent the importation into the United States of any merchandise contrary to law. Such manifest shall show the port or place in which the merchandise was taken on board the vessel, the name and description of the vessel, the names and residences of the owners thereof so far as known to the master, the names and residences of all passengers, the number of crew, and such particulars in relation thereto as the Secretary of the Treasury may require. Such manifest shall show separately all merchandise taken on board at each foreign port or place where the vessel may touch in the course of her voyage to the United States, and the port or place in which each package of merchandise was shipped. Such manifest shall be verified by the oath of the master, and by the oath of the owner, agent, consignee, or shipper of the merchandise therein specified, so far as each person verifying the same may be informed thereof. Such manifest shall be delivered to the collector of customs of the district in which the vessel shall arrive, before the entry of the vessel, and before the unlading of any part of the cargo, baggage, or passengers. Such manifest may be amended, shall apply to all merchandise actually laden on board the vessel at the foreign port or place where the cargo was last taken on board, and to no other merchandise, except such as may be specified in such amended manifest, and such amendments shall be verified in the same manner as the original manifest. Such manifest may be delivered and amended at any time within twenty-four hours after the arrival of the vessel at the first port of entry in the United States, but no merchandise shall be unladen from the vessel before the delivery of the manifest. Such manifest shall be produced to the boarding officer on demand, and shall be delivered to the collector upon the vessel's entry, or within such time thereafter as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. Any person who shall knowingly make or cause to be made any false statement in relation to the manifest, or who shall knowingly make or cause to be made any addition to or alteration, erasure, or obliteration of the manifest after the same shall have been delivered to the collector, or who shall knowingly destroy, mutilate, or suppress the manifest or any part thereof, or who shall knowingly refuse to make and subscribe to the manifest when required so to do, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each offense, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and the vessel, her tackle, apparel, furniture, and cargo, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, shall be liable to the payment of such fine, to be enforced by the proceedings authorized by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to one not less than $500 for each offense in respect of which such penalty accrued, upon such terms as the Attorney General or the Secretary of the Treasury may deem reasonable, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the penalties to the amount of such fine, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, as provided in this section. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate any penalty incurred under the provisions of this section, upon such terms as he may deem reasonable, except that no penalty shall be remitted or mitigated to less than $500 for each offense in respect of which such penalty accrued. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the penalties to the amount of such fine, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, as provided in this section. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate any penalty to secure the payment thereof. This section as amended shall apply to all penalties which shall have been incurred as well before as after the passage thereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver or account for such alien seaman by reason of desertion.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that performance of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States is necessary as a witness in connection with the prosecution of the master for violation of this section, he may defer the departure of such vessel pending such performance: but such vessel shall not be detained overtime for more than ten days. Any alien seaman who refuses to depart as required by this section shall be deported in the manner prescribed by section 20 of this Act (8 U.S.C. 156).

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained to assist in the investigation as the Attorney General may prescribe for landing in the United States, except upon certificate by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that such alien seaman has been cleared from the vessel or that his detention is necessary to secure his presence as a witness in connection with the investigation of the case by the Attorney General or his representative, and no such alien seaman shall be permitted to land temporarily for medical treatment or detained for the purpose of assisting in the investigation of the case by the Attorney General or his representative unless a permanent physical examination by the medical officers of the United States Public Health Service shall have been previously made which shall form a record upon which a certificate may be issued in accordance with the provisions of this section. Any alien seaman who fails to depart on board the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on board some other vessel or conveyance, or who departs from the United States without the permission of the Attorney General, or who enters the United States without inspection at any time or place, or who remains in the United States for a longer time than permitted under the provisions of this section, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 20 of this Act (8 U.S.C. 156). Any master who fails to detain any alien seaman on board when required so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the vessel arrives a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, as provided in this section. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate any penalty to secure the payment thereof. Any bond given under the provisions of this section shall be void and unenforceable if suit is not instituted thereon within two years from the date of the final decision by the Attorney General as to the question of the liability of the master to the payment of the fine imposed.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver or account for such alien seaman by reason of desertion.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that performance by the master of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States is necessary as a witness in connection with the prosecution of the master for violation of this section, he may defer the departure of such vessel pending such performance: but such vessel shall not be detained overtime for more than ten days. Any alien seaman who refuses to depart as required by this section shall be deported in the manner prescribed by section 20 of this Act (8 U.S.C. 156). (c)

Any alien seaman who fails to depart on board the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on board some other vessel or conveyance, or who departs from the United States without the permission of the Attorney General, or who enters the United States without inspection at any time or place, or who remains in the United States for a longer time than permitted under the provisions of this section, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 20 of this Act (8 U.S.C. 156). Any master who fails to detain any alien seaman on board when required so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the vessel arrives a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, as provided in this section. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate any penalty to secure the payment thereof. Any bond given under the provisions of this section shall be void and unenforceable if suit is not instituted thereon within two years from the date of the final decision by the Attorney General as to the question of the liability of the master to the payment of the fine imposed.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver or account for such alien seaman by reason of desertion.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that performance by the master of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States is necessary as a witness in connection with the prosecution of the master for violation of this section, he may defer the departure of such vessel pending such performance: but such vessel shall not be detained overtime for more than ten days. Any alien seaman who refuses to depart as required by this section shall be deported in the manner prescribed by section 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended by 54 Stat. 673; 8 U.S.C. 191 (a), 191 (c).

(43 Stat. 164, 165, as amended by 54 Stat. 673; 8 U.S.C. 191 (a), 191 (c).)

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The act of [illegible] provides, in part, that no [illegible] shall be granted or delivered by the master of any vessel [illegible] unless there shall have been delivered to the collector of customs [illegible] a manifest [illegible] and such other documents or papers relating to the cargo, passengers, and crew of such vessel as the Secretary of the Treasury may require, and to make oath to the truth of such manifest and such other documents and papers before the collector or any other officer authorized to administer oaths. Such manifest shall be in such form and contain such information as the Secretary of the Treasury may require to enable him to carry the provisions of this Act into effect, and to prevent the importation into the United States of any merchandise contrary to law. Such manifest shall show the port or place in which the merchandise was taken on board the vessel, the name and description of the vessel, the names and residences of the owners thereof so far as known to the master, the names and residences of all passengers, the number of crew, and such particulars in relation thereto as the Secretary of the Treasury may require. Such manifest shall show separately all merchandise taken on board at each foreign port or place where the vessel may touch in the course of her voyage to the United States, and the port or place in which each package of merchandise was shipped. Such manifest shall be verified by the oath of the master, and by the oath of the owner, agent, consignee, or shipper of the merchandise therein specified, so far as each person verifying the same may be informed thereof. Such manifest shall be delivered to the collector of customs of the district in which the vessel shall arrive, before the entry of the vessel, and before the unlading of any part of the cargo, baggage, or passengers. Such manifest may be amended, shall apply to all merchandise actually laden on board the vessel at the foreign port or place where the cargo was last taken on board, and to no other merchandise, except such as may be specified in such amended manifest, and such amendments shall be verified in the same manner as the original manifest. Such manifest may be delivered and amended at any time within twenty-four hours after the arrival of the vessel at the first port of entry in the United States, but no merchandise shall be unladen from the vessel before the delivery of the manifest. Such manifest shall be produced to the boarding officer on demand, and shall be delivered to the collector upon the vessel's entry, or within such time thereafter as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. Any person who shall knowingly make or cause to be made any false statement in relation to the manifest, or who shall knowingly make or cause to be made any addition to or alteration, erasure, or obliteration of the manifest after the same shall have been delivered to the collector, or who shall knowingly destroy, mutilate, or suppress the manifest or any part thereof, or who shall knowingly refuse to make and subscribe to the manifest when required so to do, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each offense, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and the vessel, her tackle, apparel, furniture, and cargo, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, shall be liable to the payment of such fine, to be enforced by the proceedings authorized by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to one not less than $500 for each offense in respect of which such penalty accrued, upon such terms as the Attorney General or the Secretary of the Treasury may deem reasonable, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the penalties to the amount of such fine, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, as provided in this section. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate any penalty incurred under the provisions of this section, upon such terms as he may deem reasonable, except that no penalty shall be remitted or mitigated to less than $500 for each offense in respect of which such penalty accrued. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the penalties to the amount of such fine, or a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond duly executed for the payment thereof, as provided in this section. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate any penalty to secure the payment thereof. This section as amended shall apply to all penalties which shall have been incurred as well before as after the passage thereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver or account for such alien seaman by reason of desertion.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that performance by the master of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States is necessary as a witness in connection with the prosecution of the master for violation of this section, he may defer the departure of such vessel pending such performance: but such vessel shall not be detained overtime for more than ten days. Any alien seaman who refuses to depart as required by this section shall be deported in the manner prescribed by section 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended by 54 Stat. 673; 8 U.S.C. 191 (a), 191 (c).

(43 Stat. 164, 165, as amended by 54 Stat. 673; 8 U.S.C. 191 (a), 191 (c).)

SEC. 23. [8 U.S.C. 1223] Lists of aliens and employees; when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the list or manifest required to be delivered by the master of such vessel under section 231 of this Act has been delivered to the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure, or his authorized representative, and, if such vessel is destined to a foreign port, until the master has delivered to the immigration officer at each port in the United States at which such vessel may call after departure from the first port of departure from the United States, a like list containing the names of any additional aliens who have boarded such vessel and the information required by such list concerning them, and until the master has delivered to the immigration officer at each such port a list of the persons employed on board such vessel since her departure from the last port in the United States, or, in the case of the departure of such vessel from the first port of departure, since the departure of such vessel from a foreign port, which list shall contain such information concerning such persons as may be required by the Attorney General. Any master who shall fail to deliver any list required by this section, or who shall refuse to permit any immigration officer to go on board his vessel for the purpose of examining the persons thereon, or who shall refuse to answer truthfully the questions asked him by such immigration officer concerning persons on board his vessel, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port is situated the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety, to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such fine, or any part thereof, upon the remission or mitigation by the court of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred by the master or owner of such vessel for violation of the immigration laws.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or that he was employed on board such vessel during the course of her last voyage in violation of section 252 of this Act shall be prima facie evidence that such alien seaman has remained unlawfully in the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that proper identification of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be detained on shore at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 16. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws may be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to obtain medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the admissible detention, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States, consonance, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof until a permit in writing has been granted by the Attorney General and delivered to the master or agent of such vessel, stating the number, nationality, capacity in which each alien seaman employed on such vessel will be employed, the ports at which such alien seaman is to be employed, and the intended length of his stay in the United States. Such permit may be granted to any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States if, in the opinion of the Attorney General (which opinion shall be final), he is not prohibited by section 23 of this Act from entering the United States, except temporarily to obtain medical treatment, or is not afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities set forth in section 3 of this Act, and if the master or agent of such vessel shall furnish a bond in the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such master or agent is required to furnish a bond by such immigration officer at the port of arrival, conditioned that each such alien seaman will depart from the United States in accordance with the terms of his permit and with such regulations as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, and that he will pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $300 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such master or agent fails to furnish such seaman with a permit to depart from the United States when required so to do, and will pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of departure is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such master or agent fails to deliver such seaman on board the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or at such other time and place as may be designated by the Attorney General: Provided, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the payment of such bond or any part thereof in the case of any alien seaman employed on board any vessel which shall make only infrequent trips to ports of the United States, if he is satisfied that the master or agent of such vessel will deliver such alien seaman to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival in the United States, and will cause such alien seaman to depart from the United States on such vessel or on some other vessel or vessels in such manner as the Attorney General may direct, and will pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of departure is located the sum of $300 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such master or agent fails to comply with such requirements. Any alien seaman shall, if ordered deported, be deported on board the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on board any vessel operated by the owner of such vessel or on board any vessel which shall transport cargo from the United States to the country to which such alien seaman is ordered deported, as the Attorney General may direct, and the cost of his maintenance while detained on board such vessel and of his deportation shall be borne by the owner of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States. Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States who shall be discharged from such vessel, with the consent of the immigration officer at the port of arrival, shall be deported to the country of which he is a subject, citizen, or national, or to the country in which he resided, at the time of his last entry into the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, unless the master or agent of such vessel shall deposit with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $300 for each such alien seaman, and such sum shall be refunded to the master or agent of such vessel upon the deportation of such alien seaman from the United States on such vessel or some other vessel sailing from the United States, or upon the establishment to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such alien seaman has left the United States on some vessel sailing therefrom. Any such alien seaman who shall have remained in the United States for a period in excess of five years shall be deported only in pursuance of a warrant issued by the Attorney General after a hearing before a special inquiry officer, unless the Attorney General shall be satisfied that such alien seaman (1) was lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence if at the time of his admission he was in possession of an unexpired immigration visa, or (2) was not within the United States during the whole of such five-year period, or (3) entered the United States as a member of the crew of a vessel which has been arrested and is being proceeded against under the provisions of section 19 of this Act, or (4) is under a final order of deportation against him based upon a ground existing at the time of his entry. Any such alien seaman shall be entitled to a hearing before a special inquiry officer upon the question of his deportability, and to the right of appeal to the Board of Immigration Appeals from the decision of the special inquiry officer. The decision of the Attorney General in any case under this section shall be final. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed as authorizing the deportation of any alien seaman who is found to be a member of any of the classes enumerated in section 3 of this Act, other than those specifically mentioned in clauses (3) and (4) of this section. SEC. 150.15. Liens of alien employees: when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master of such vessel has complied with the provisions of section 36 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 171), and has given information as to the names of all aliens employed on such vessel who will not return to the United States with such vessel, and has deposited with the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of departure a sum sufficient in the opinion of such inspector to pay the cost of the return passage of such aliens, unless the master has obtained from the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization a certificate that such aliens have been duly admitted to the United States or that the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization has waived the deposit in the case of any alien. Clearance may be granted without the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fare, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, upon the application of such alien, approved by the collector of customs. The attorney (general may also require as the attorney (general in his discretion shall think proper. The section as amended shall apply to all bonding arrangements entered into on and after July 1, 1940.

(b) Every alien employed on such vessel failing to depart with the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, or adjacent island, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart after temporary shore leave granted by the immigration officer at the vessel's port of arrival.

(c) If the Attorney (general finds that deportation of the alien assigned on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to obtain or depart after temporary shore leave cannot be effected on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, such alien may be detained on board or at a station designated by the immigration officer at the vessel's port of arrival until such time as the vessel is ready to depart from the United States, and such expenses as may be incurred in such detention shall be paid by the master of such vessel. Any such alien may be required to perform such labor as may be found practicable during such detention. The Attorney (general may, in his discretion, parole such alien into the United States temporarily under bond, in such manner as he may prescribe, for a period not exceeding one year, subject to such conditions as he may prescribe, and may cancel such parole and bond at any time. Any alien who violates any condition upon which such parole is granted shall be liable to the payment of the bond, and, in addition, if he shall thereafter knowingly remain in the United States without the consent of the Attorney (general, he shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for not exceeding two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any such alien shall, pending determination of his admissibility to landing or pending his departure, pursuant to such order, not be held in detention facilities unless he shall have failed to comply with such order to depart, or unless the Attorney (general shall have reasonable cause to believe that he will not depart in accordance with such order. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to authorize the Attorney (general to detain any alien for a longer period than one year except in the case of a seaman. The Attorney (general is authorized to issue such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of this section, including rules and regulations governing the administration of bonds provided for herein and the procedure with respect to the custody, parole, and detention of aliens detained hereunder. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 18. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival a complete list or manifest of all aliens on board such vessel, which list or manifest shall be subject to the inspection of and verification by such immigrant inspector, and such additional lists or manifests shall be delivered or produced before the departure of the vessel from each port in the United States at which she may touch or stop during her voyage as may be required by the immigrant inspector in charge at such port. Such list or manifest shall be made out in such form and contain such additional information relative to each alien on board as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. The master, agent, consignee, or owner of every such vessel shall cause the list or manifest to be delivered to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival before the commencement of the discharge of any alien on board, and no such alien shall be allowed to land in the United States from such vessel until the list or manifest has been delivered and the inspection of such alien has been completed, and a permit to land issued to him: Provided, That in case of any vessel arriving at a port of the United States at which there is no immigrant inspector in charge, the list or manifest required by this section shall be delivered to the collector of customs, or other officer acting in lieu of the immigrant inspector in charge, before any alien on board such vessel shall be allowed to land in the United States from such vessel. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver such list or manifest, or to allow the inspection provided for in this section, or who shall refuse or fail to detain on board such vessel any alien who has been certified to him as required by the immigrant inspector in charge, or who shall land or permit to be landed any alien from such vessel before the inspection of such alien has been completed and a permit to land issued, shall pay to the United States a penalty of $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom such failure occurs. The amount of such penalty shall be a lien upon the vessel, and may be recovered by proceedings in the district court of the United States for the district within which the port is located at which the vessel arrives. The Attorney General may remit or mitigate such penalty in such amount and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem proper and just.

SEC. 19. That the master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien who is not lawfully entitled to enter the United States to any port in the United States shall be required to take such alien back to the port from which he came, or to any other country which may be designated by such alien which will receive him, and the cost of the maintenance of such alien while in the United States and of his removal therefrom shall be borne by such master, agent, consignee, or owner: Provided, That the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, may waive the provisions of this section in the case of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, or who is not required to obtain such visa and who is in possession of a valid unexpired passport issued by the country of which he claims nationality, or who establishes to the satisfaction of the Commissioner General of Immigration his identity and nationality and that he is entitled to admission to some foreign country other than the country to which he makes application for admission to the United States.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the adjacent islands, or in case of a vessel touching at any port of the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands and destined to a port or place in the United States, before such vessel shall depart from the port, place, or district of the United States at which it shall arrive, shall cause a list or manifest to be made, in quadruplicate, of all persons on board such vessel, whether passengers or members of the crew, and shall deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival one copy of such list or manifest, and additional copies to the collector of customs at the customs district and the port of arrival at which the vessel will next touch, and to the commanding officer of the border patrol station at the port of arrival, if there be such a station at such port. The master of each vessel shall certify to the correctness of the list or manifest by his signature thereto, and the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival may require the master to make oath to the list or manifest before a United States consular officer, immigrant inspector, or other officer authorized to administer oaths to passengers arriving in the United States. The immigrant inspector at the port of arrival may order such changes in the list or manifest as may be necessary, and may order the master, in case of failure to comply with such order, to depart immediately from the United States with all aliens on board his vessel. Such list or manifest shall be in such form and contain such additional information relative to each alien as the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, shall prescribe. The Commissioner General of Immigration may require the master to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a separate list or manifest of the persons employed on the vessel who are not to be landed in the United States, showing the positions in which they are employed, the length of time they have been employed thereon, and such other information relative to their employment as the Commissioner General of Immigration may prescribe.

(b) The master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel upon which any alien is brought to the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands shall, before such vessel departs from the port, place, or district of the United States at which it arrives, deliver to the immigrant inspector at such port, place, or district a list or manifest of the aliens on board such vessel who are destined to ports, places, or districts in the United States, which list or manifest shall be subject to the same inspection, verification, and requirements as the list or manifest required to be delivered at the port of arrival.

(c) The master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel upon which any alien is brought to the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands shall cause to be detained on board such vessel such alien, and such other aliens as may be designated by the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, pending the inspection of such alien by the immigrant inspector, unless such alien shall be certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be suffering from a contagious disease which would endanger the public health if such alien should land before recovery or removal from the port, or unless such alien shall be certified by such medical officer to be helpless from sickness or mental or physical defect of such character as to require assistance in landing, in which case the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall cause such alien to be detained in a hospital designated for such purpose by the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service until such alien shall be certified by such medical officer to be physically and mentally able to land, when such alien shall be cared for as provided in the case of other aliens who are required to be detained on board such vessel. The cost of such detention and care shall be borne by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel. Such detention shall be reported to the Commissioner General of Immigration and to the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service.

(d) Every alien arriving at a port of the United States who is destined to a place in foreign contiguous territory shall be informed of the requirements of the immigration laws relating to such aliens in transit through the United States.

SEC. 21. (a) Any person, including any transportation company, or the owner, master, agent, consignee, or lessee of any vessel or other means of transportation who shall bring to the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands any alien who is not lawfully entitled to enter the United States, or who shall bring to the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands any alien who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be suffering from a contagious disease which would endanger the public health if such alien should land before recovery or removal from the port, or who shall bring to the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands any alien who has been certified by such medical officer to be helpless from sickness or mental or physical defect of such character as to require assistance in landing, shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien, and may also be imprisoned for not more than one year: Provided, That no penalty shall be imposed in the case of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, or who is not required to obtain such visa and who is in possession of a valid unexpired passport issued by the country of which he claims nationality, or who establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General his identity and nationality and that he is entitled to admission to some foreign country other than the country to which he makes application for admission to the United States.

(b) Any such alien shall be taken before the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival for examination by two medical officers of the United States Public Health Service, and unless found by them to be suffering from a contagious disease which would endanger the public health if such alien should land before recovery or removal from the port, or to be helpless from sickness or mental or physical defect of such character as to require assistance in landing, such alien may be allowed to land upon giving a bond with sufficient sureties, in such sum not exceeding $500 as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned upon the production of such alien to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival within four months from the date of the bond, or such shorter time as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, for examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service. If upon such examination such alien is certified by such medical officer to be suffering from a contagious disease which would endanger the public health if such alien should land before recovery or removal from the port, or to be helpless from sickness or mental or physical defect of such character as to require assistance in landing, and such certification is approved by the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, such alien shall be deported to the country to which the vessel on which he arrived belongs, unless such country refuses to receive him, in which case he shall be deported to the country in which he resided prior to coming to the country from which he arrived. Such deportation shall be at the cost of the vessel on which such alien arrived, and shall be in addition to any penalty imposed upon the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel. Such alien shall be detained on board such vessel or in such hospital or other place as may be designated by the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, pending such deportation, and shall not be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily under bond as a witness or for hospital treatment or such other special cases as may be directed by the Secretary of Labor, until the vessel is ready to depart from the United States, or, in the case of such hospital treatment, until such time as the Secretary of Labor may direct. The cost of such detention shall be borne by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assumed on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien because he was a member of the crew of such vessel, or for any other reason, he may permit such alien to depart from the United States on any other vessel bound to a foreign port willing to receive him, upon the payment by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived of the cost of the maintenance of such alien while in the United States and of his removal therefrom, and such payment shall not be a defense to any action brought against such master, agent, consignee, or owner for the recovery of the penalty prescribed by this section.

(d) Every alien arriving at a port of the United States who appears upon the application for admission or examination to be unable to support himself without becoming a public charge, or who is found to be within any of the classes excluded from admission to the United States by section 3 of this Act, shall be detained for special inquiry under rules prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Such special inquiry shall be conducted by boards of special inquiry appointed by the Secretary of Labor. The decision of such boards shall be final unless reversed on appeal to the Secretary of Labor. Such appeal shall be taken within such time and under such conditions and such limitations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, order the admission of any such alien applying for admission or certified by the board of special inquiry for deportation, pending the final determination of his case. Such alien may be released from detention upon the deposit of such sum of money or bond with sufficient sureties as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, but such bond shall not be required in any case in which the alien is certified by the board of special inquiry to be a person who may be admitted to the United States under section 4 (6) of this Act. Such bond shall be conditioned upon the production of such alien to the board of special inquiry at the time and place specified, and upon the payment of the cost of his detention if he shall fail to appear and be finally admitted, and upon his departure to a country other than the United States if he shall be excluded and deported, and upon compliance with such other conditions as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. Upon the giving of such bond the alien may be released from detention. Any such bond may be sued upon in the name of the United States in the event of a breach of any condition upon which it was given, and shall be treated as a bond taken pursuant to section 21 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 171).” have been renumbered, and the reference therein corrected to read “section 18 of this Act.”

(43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof shall cause a list or manifest to be made of all the crew members employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seamen (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or to deliver to such immigration officer at the port of arrival a bond in such sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the Attorney General to do so, until such bond is furnished to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General may prescribe, unless such deposit or bond is made with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or any part thereof. This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens irrespective of the date of their entry. (43 Stat. 164–165; 28 Stat. 816; 8 U. S. C. 101 (a), 101 (c).)

Such special inquiry shall be conducted by boards of special inquiry appointed by the Secretary of Labor. The decision of such boards shall be final unless reversed on appeal to the Secretary of Labor. Such appeal shall be taken within such time and under such conditions and such limitations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, order the admission of any such alien applying for admission or certified by the board of special inquiry for deportation, pending the final determination of his case. Such alien may be released from detention upon the deposit of such sum of money or bond with sufficient sureties, in such sum not exceeding $500 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General may prescribe, unless such deposit or bond is made with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or any part thereof. This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens irrespective of the date of their entry. (43 Stat. 164–165; 28 Stat. 816; 8 U. S. C. 101 (a), 101 (c).)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained to such destination as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof shall deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival and before the vessel shall depart from the port, a list or manifest of all persons on board such vessel, whether passengers or members of the crew, and shall indicate which of such persons are United States citizens, which are aliens admitted for permanent residence, which are aliens in transit through the United States, which are aliens entitled to enter the United States temporarily as nonimmigrants, and which are aliens not lawfully entitled to enter the United States. Such list or manifest shall be prepared at such time before the vessel's departure from the last port outside the United States, and in such form as the Attorney General may by regulations prescribe, and shall be subscribed and sworn to by the master of such vessel before a consular officer of the United States, if there be one at the port of departure, and if there be no consular officer at such port, then before the chief officer of customs or other officer in charge of the collection of customs at such port. The Attorney General may require such list or manifest to be prepared and delivered in duplicate, and may provide that such list or manifest shall contain such additional information relative to each alien listed therein as may be necessary for the purpose of properly administering the immigration laws. The master of any vessel who fails to comply with the requirements of this section or any regulations made thereunder shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $300 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs, which sum shall be a lien upon the vessel, and may be refused clearance until paid or sufficient security given therefor. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof.

(b) Front fine an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States the master shall deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a like list or manifest of all alien seamen discharged or otherwise departing from the United States from such port or place, or if no alien seamen departed, a report to that effect. Such list or manifest shall be prepared and delivered in such form, manner, and at such time as the Attorney General may by regulations prescribe. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States upon the vessel on which he arrived, or on such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer at the port of departure, within the time prescribed by the Attorney General in the regulations hereinafter provided for, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. The master of any vessel who fails to deliver such list or manifest, or who refuses or fails to deliver any such alien seaman for deportation, or who secures the discharge or departure of any such alien seaman in any manner with intent to prevent the deportation of such alien seaman, shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman, which sum shall be a lien upon the vessel, and may be refused clearance until paid or sufficient security given therefor. Where an alien seaman has been granted shore leave temporarily, or pending examination, or pending his deportation, the master shall be responsible for his presence on board at the time of departure of the vessel from the port, unless such alien seaman has been granted permission to depart from the United States at some other port and has been issued a certificate to that effect by the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure. Such certificate shall be delivered by the master to the immigration officer at the port at which the vessel arrives in the United States. Any master who violates any of the provisions of this subdivision shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seamen by reason of a change in the character of the vessel or otherwise, and that such vessel will be employed in the service for which she was originally documented for a period of not more than one year, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 16. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, or destined to any foreign port, may be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because detained as a witness in connection with the prosecution of any person charged with a violation of the immigration laws, or pending the final determination of appeal taken from the decision of the Secretary of Labor in the case of such alien seaman, but no such alien seaman shall be granted a permit to land temporarily as a member of the crew of any vessel unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that the return of such alien seaman is reasonably assured. No such alien seaman shall be granted a permit to land temporarily after the vessel on which he arrived shall have departed from such port. Upon the granting of a permit to land temporarily, such alien seaman shall be required to deposit with the Secretary of Labor, or such person as he may designate for the purpose, the sum of $500 if such alien seaman is employed on a vessel of more than 1,000 gross tons, or the sum of $300 if such alien seaman is employed on a vessel of 1,000 gross tons or less, which deposit shall be refunded to such alien seaman upon the departure of the vessel on which he arrived from the United States, or upon the cancellation of his permit to land temporarily and his departure on any vessel within the period prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Unless sooner canceled, every permit to land temporarily shall expire at the end of such period, not exceeding four months, as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Before the granting of a permit to land temporarily, the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived shall file a bond in such amount, not exceeding $1,000, and with such sureties as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned that such alien seaman will depart from the United States on some vessel within the period for which he is granted a permit to land temporarily, and will comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws with respect to such alien seaman during the period he remains in the United States. Any alien seaman who shall fail to depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel within the period for which he was granted a permit to land temporarily, or who shall fail to comply with any of the requirements of the immigration laws during the period he remains in the United States, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of the Immigration Act of 1917, as amended (U. S. C., title 8, secs. 155, 156), and in addition thereto shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, or any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place and employed on board any vessel plying between the United States and any foreign port or place, except temporarily for the purpose of embarking or disembarking, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except for such time as may be necessary for the performance of his duties on board such vessel and for such time as the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival may prescribe, unless such alien seaman shall establish to the satisfaction of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that he is lawfully entitled to enter the United States, has come to the United States solely for the purpose of following his calling as a seaman, and intends to depart from the United States in a vessel on board which he intends to be employed. Such alien seaman shall be required to deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a sum sufficient in the opinion of such officer to pay the expenses of his maintenance while he remains in the United States and the cost of his passage to the country whence he came, or to the country to which he intends to go, and such deposit shall be a lien for such expenses. Any such deposit, or any part thereof, may be remitted to such alien seaman or to his order at any time before his departure from the United States. Any such deposit, or any part thereof, which is not remitted to such alien seaman or to his order prior to the departure of the vessel on board which he was employed shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as a special fund to be used in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor in defraying the expenses of the maintenance, detention, and removal of such aliens. Any such deposit, or any part thereof, which is not claimed by or on behalf of such alien seaman within two years after the departure of the vessel on board which he was employed from the United States shall be deemed to be a gift to the United States and shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States. Any such alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act. Any such alien seaman who shall fail to depart from the United States with the vessel on board which he was employed, or on board some other vessel, upon the completion of the unloading of the cargo of such vessel, or within such time thereafter as may be prescribed by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act. Any such alien seaman who shall land in the United States during the period of time his vessel is in port, and who is employed on board any vessel which leaves port without him, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act. Any such alien seaman who shall land in the United States, and who shall not depart therefrom with the vessel on board which he arrived, or on board some other vessel, within the period of time his vessel is in port

SEC. 14. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily and under such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (48 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 144.)

SEC. 35. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof shall cause each alien seaman employed on board such vessel to be inspected by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and to detain on board or at such other place as the immigration officer may designate each such alien seaman until he has been granted a landing certificate or permit or has been otherwise lawfully permitted to enter the United States or has been removed from the United States pursuant to law. Each such alien seaman shall be detained on board and at such place until inspected and admitted or otherwise permitted to land or removed from the United States. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 875; 8 U. S. C. 136), any such alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States may be granted permission to land temporarily for not to exceed twenty-nine days under such bond and such conditions as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, but no such bond shall be required of any such alien seaman who is in possession of a valid unexpired passport issued by the country of which he is a national which complies with the requirements of section 6 of the Immigration Act of 1924 (43 Stat. 156; 8 U. S. C. 136), unless the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization has reason to believe that such alien seaman intends to land permanently or to abscond. Such bond may be canceled at any time and the alien seaman required to depart from the United States upon the expiration of such period of time as the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization may deem necessary for the departure of such alien seaman from the United States. Upon the failure of any such alien seaman to depart from the United States upon the expiration of such period of time as the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization may deem necessary for the departure of such alien seaman from the United States, the bond of such alien seaman may be declared forfeited by any immigration officer designated by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization for the collection of bonds. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing received prior to the expiration of the period of time allowed for the departure of such alien seaman, extend the time for his departure from the United States if the Attorney General is satisfied that such extension is necessary by reason of illness or other emergent reasons and that the granting of such extension will not be prejudicial to the interests of the United States. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to pay any penalty provided for in this section, or while any penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of funds sufficient to cover such penalty or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing received prior to the expiration of the time allowed for the departure of any

SEC. 150.1. Limit of alien employment: when clearance is waived denied. Clearance shall not be granted for the alien's departure, temporarily or permanently, if the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization knows or has reason to believe that the alien intends to enter employment, paid or unpaid, in the United States after departure, unless the alien establishes to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that he has been lawfully admitted for permanent residence or has been granted permission to accept employment by the Service pursuant to the provisions of section 212(a)(14) of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 137), and has not been notified that such permission has been terminated, and has not then become subject to deportation under section 241(a)(17) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (66 Stat. 208; 8 U. S. C. 1251(a)(17)), and has complied with any applicable requirements of this chapter.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by reason of illness, injury, or quarantine requirements, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien, or pursuant to bond or such other conditions as the Attorney General may prescribe, to prevent the becoming of such alien a public charge, or pursuant to regulations prescribed by the Attorney General governing the admission of aliens employed on board vessels touching at ports of the United States and calling at foreign ports or places en route.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, or departing therefrom for any place outside the United States, except vessels plying between the United States and places in contiguous territory to which the navigation laws of the United States do not apply, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $8 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the payment thereof, or while any such penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, if he is satisfied that such failure was due to sickness or accident, or to the inability of the master after the exercise of due diligence to secure a substitute alien seaman in exchange for the alien seaman who failed to report for departure, or that the vessel was required to depart before the expiration of such period, or that such failure occurred by reason of the cancelation of the alien seaman's right to land temporarily or not to land from a vessel, or that such alien seaman was prevented from departing on such vessel by reason of his arrest as a witness at the request of the Attorney General.

(b) Every alien seaman who has been granted permission to land temporarily in the United States shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws unless he shall have previously departed from the United States on a vessel other than that on which he arrived, or unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, waives deportation in the case of any alien seaman who has been lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival has refused to permit the landing of any alien seaman who arrived on a vessel and intends to depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or on another vessel, and that the cost of maintaining such alien seaman pending departure will be unduly burdensome, he may cause such alien seaman to be taken before a special inquiry officer for a hearing upon the question whether such alien seaman shall be permitted to land temporarily in the United States. Pending such hearing and decision thereon, such alien seaman shall be detained on board the vessel or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival. Such hearing shall be conducted in accordance with such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Attorney General.

(a) Any master, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing into the United States from any place outside thereof any alien (whether such alien be a seaman or not) who is afflicted with any of the diseases mentioned in section 2 of this Act, or who is found to be a member of any of the classes excluded from admission to the United States by section 3 of this Act, shall be required to take such alien back to the place of embarkation or to some place in foreign contiguous territory, or to the country in which the vessel took on the alien, or to the country in which the alien resided before embarking at the option of the master, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel, and the cost of the maintenance of such alien while in the United States and the cost of his removal therefrom shall be paid by the master, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel bringing such alien to the United States. Any such master, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel who refuses or fails to remove any such alien as required by this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, unless such alien is a citizen of the United States. Any such master, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel who refuses or fails to remove any such alien as required by this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, unless such alien is a citizen of the United States.

(b) Any alien seaman who shall desert while his vessel is in any port of the United States shall be deported as provided in section 19 hereof, unless he shall have been granted by the Secretary of Labor permission to remain in the United States, or shall depart therefrom within such period of time as may be granted by the Secretary of Labor. (39 Stat. 898; 8 U. S. C. 181.)

No alien shall be deported pursuant to the provisions of this section to any country which is dominated or governed by any government or party which denies to the United States the right to secure the return of its citizens after deportation under this section. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the deportation of any alien who may be deported under the provisions of this Act at any time after the reasons for suspending deportation shall cease to exist. SEC. 10. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States (except seamen employed on board vessels touching at ports in the United States solely for the purpose of taking on board sea stores or bunker coal, or both, and who do not secure shore leave), or who deserts any vessel in the United States in which he is employed, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or quarantine regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for a period not to exceed thirty days, or pending arrangements for his departure, or pending a hearing before a special inquiry officer, or pending an appeal taken from the decision of a special inquiry officer, or pending the determination of an appeal by the Attorney General, but shall be detained on board or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge of the port pending the determination of his case. Any alien seaman who is permitted to land temporarily as provided in this section shall at the time of his departure from the United States pay the cost of his maintenance while in the United States, unless the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of such cost. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of this Act, and shall be deported on the vessel on which he arrived, if practicable, unless the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall furnish a bond in the sum of $300 for the deportation of such alien seaman, and such bond shall not be required in any case in which the cost of deportation would be less than $300. Any alien seaman who shall have been granted shore leave while his vessel was in port and who shall fail to report on board prior to the departure of such vessel from such port, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that his failure so to report was due to causes beyond his control and without fault on his part or neglect, shall be deported in the manner provided by this section. Any alien seaman who shall have been granted shore leave while his vessel was in port and who shall fail to report on board prior to the departure from such port of the vessel on which he arrived shall be deported on the vessel next arriving at the port from which he deserted, if sufficient space is available thereon for the accommodation of such alien seaman, unless the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall furnish a bond in the sum of $300 for the deportation of such alien seaman, and such bond shall not be required in any case in which the cost of deportation would be less than $300. Any alien seaman who shall have been granted shore leave while his vessel was in port and who shall fail to report on board prior to the departure from such port of the vessel on which he arrived shall be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, or the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof, unless security is given

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than an island, territory, or insular possession subject to the jurisdiction of the United States), or to whom a conditional landing shall be granted in the United States by the Secretary of Labor, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty or necessity, or by reason of illness requiring his removal to a hospital for treatment, or because his presence is required by the United States authorities, until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection shall not be performed by any such officer until the vessel on which such alien seaman arrives shall have been admitted to entry), and has granted a landing certificate to such seaman on board which such inspection or to whom such landing certificate has been granted by the immigration officer at the port of arrival (which certificate shall be surrendered to the immigration officer at the port of departure), or to whom such landing certificate has been granted by the Attorney General (which he is hereby authorized to do so), shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such landing occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has certified to the collector of customs that the requirements of this section with respect to such seaman have been complied with: Provided, That clearance may be granted before the inspection of such seaman is completed upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such fine in whole or in part to the extent that he may deem just and reasonable in any case in which it appears that the person in charge of the vessel has complied with the requirements of the immigration laws with respect to the seaman for whom the fine was imposed, or that the seaman was prevented from complying with such requirements because of illness, injury, or other cause beyond the control of the person in charge of the vessel, or that such fine was imposed without notice to the master or person in charge of the vessel and under circumstances which do not indicate connivance in the unlawful landing of the seaman, or that the vessel on which the seaman arrived sailed from a foreign port without prior notice that the seaman was destined to the United States and that it was impracticable for the master or person in charge of the vessel to prevent the landing of the seaman. No fine imposed under the provisions of this section shall be remitted or refunded unless application therefor is made within one year after the date of the payment of such fine. The Attorney General shall report to the Congress the name of each seaman for whom fines imposed under this section have been remitted in whole or in part, the amount of such fines, and his reasons for remitting the same. Nothing in this section shall be construed to repeal, amend, or affect the provisions of section 16 of this Act.

(b) Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of law shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 hereof, and shall be ineligible to become a citizen of the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the Attorney General.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof to deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival lists or manifests of all the persons on board such vessel, which lists or manifests shall be prepared in the form and manner and contain such information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and shall be delivered before the immigrant inspector proceeds to question any alien on board such vessel. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver such lists or manifests at the time of the departure of the vessel from a foreign port for the United States, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver such additional lists or manifests required by the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, or who shall refuse or fail to comply with such regulations as the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, shall prescribe relative to the inspection of aliens on board vessels arriving at ports of the United States, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which such port is located a sum not exceeding $300 for each such offense. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, and in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid, no application for clearance by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall be granted. The decision of the Secretary of Labor as to the remission or mitigation of such fine shall be final. Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine. (39 Stat. 880, 887; 8 U. S. C. 191.)

SEC. 150.15 Limit of alien employment; when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof has complied with section 36 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 880; 8 U. S. C. 191), as amended by section 32 of said Act (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 199), and has complied with the requirements of any regulations issued thereunder and not then rescinded by the Attorney General, except temporarily pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, or pending an appeal to the Secretary of Labor as provided by section 36 of said Act (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 199), unless a bond with sufficient surety in such amount as may be required by the Attorney General, not exceeding $300 for each alien seaman, conditioned upon the payment of such fine, has been deposited with the collector of customs. The Attorney General may remit such fine in whole or in part to the extent that he may deem just and reasonable in any case in which it appears that the person in charge of the vessel has complied with the requirements of the immigration laws with respect to the seaman for whom the fine was imposed, or that the seaman was prevented from complying with such requirements because of illness, injury, or other cause beyond the control of the person in charge of the vessel, or that such fine was imposed without notice to the master or person in charge of the vessel and under circumstances which do not indicate connivance in the unlawful landing of the seaman, or that the vessel on which the seaman arrived sailed from a foreign port without prior notice that the seaman was destined to the United States and that it was impracticable for the master or person in charge of the vessel to prevent the landing of the seaman. No fine imposed under the provisions of this section shall be remitted or refunded unless application therefor is made within one year after the date of the payment of such fine. The Attorney General shall report to the Congress the name of each seaman for whom fines imposed under this section have been remitted in whole or in part, the amount of such fines, and his reasons for remitting the same. Nothing in this section shall be construed to repeal, amend, or affect the provisions of section 16 of this Act. (39 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

(a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing into the United States from any place outside thereof (other than an island, territory, or insular possession subject to the jurisdiction of the United States) any alien seaman (whether a member of the crew or otherwise) who has been ordered excluded from admission into the United States by any immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, or who has been granted a conditional landing in the United States by the Secretary of Labor, except temporarily because of illness of such alien seaman, shall be required to remove such alien seaman to a foreign port or place if practicable in the same vessel or aircraft in which he arrived or in any vessel or aircraft scheduled to depart for such foreign port or place before any vessel or aircraft other than a vessel or aircraft of the same line is cleared, unless such alien seaman is lawfully entitled to enter some other foreign port or place. Such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, master, or commanding officer of the vessel or aircraft shall pay the cost of maintenance while on shore, and expenses incident to the removal of such alien seaman. Such cost of maintenance shall be determined in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and shall be recoverable from such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, master, or commanding officer of the vessel or aircraft, or from the proceeds of the sale of such alien seaman's property if unclaimed by him within one year after such sale, in a suit brought by the Attorney General.

(b) Any such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, master, or commanding officer who shall refuse or fail to remove any such alien seaman as required by subsection (a) of this section, or who shall refuse or fail to pay the cost of maintenance of such alien seaman while on shore, or the expenses incident to his removal, shall pay to the Attorney General a penalty of $300 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Such penalty may be remitted or mitigated by the Attorney General upon such terms as he may deem reasonable and just. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel or aircraft required to remove any such alien seaman pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty, and in the event such penalty is imposed and is not remitted, clearance may be withheld from any vessel or aircraft owned by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel or aircraft until such penalty has been paid to the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of any such alien seaman at the time required by this section is impracticable or undesirable because of the lack of accommodations for such alien seaman on account of the refusal of the government of the country to which such alien seaman is to be deported to accept him, or for any other reason, he may grant a temporary permit to such alien seaman to remain in the United States for such time and under such conditions as he may prescribe. Any such alien seaman who shall remain in the United States after the time prescribed by the Attorney General shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 hereof, and shall be ineligible to become a citizen of the United States.

The list or manifest of aliens immigrant, nonimmigrant, or in transit to destinations beyond the port of arrival, and of aliens who have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence who intend to depart immediately and who intend to proceed in the same vessel in which they arrive to a foreign port or to a port in a possession of the United States, shall be delivered or mailed to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival within twenty-four hours after the vessel shall have been granted entry or shall have obtained clearance from the Service. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who refuses or fails to deliver the list required, or who refuses or fails to furnish additional information contained in the list or required by the immigration officer, shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each such refusal or failure. The refusal or failure of any master, agent, owner, or consignee to deliver the list required shall also be sufficient cause for the issuance of a notice of debarkation to each alien concerned, requiring him to depart from the United States without a hearing before a special inquiry officer. Clearance will not be granted to any vessel by the Commissioner of Customs while such refusal or failure continues.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien arrived on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or the payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(43 Stat. 154, 162. 22 U.S.C. 223. 8 U.S.C. 102.)

Such list or manifest shall be prepared and delivered at such time and place and in such manner as may be directed by the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival. Failure to prepare or deliver such list or manifest, or to supply any information required by this section or by regulations issued thereunder, or to permit the inspection of the list or manifest by any immigration officer, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien as to whom such a failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the collection of any fine imposed under the provisions of this section, or while any such fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, if he finds that there was no intention on the part of the master to bring to the United States any alien who might be excluded from admission under the provisions of this Act, or that such fine was incurred by reason of any inadvertence, error, or accident, and that such fine should be remitted or canceled in whole or in part in the interests of justice. I have also noted the copy of section 30 of the Act of February 5, 1917, extract from subdivision B, rule 7, and copy of sections 13 and 30, Act of May 26, 1924, which appear below.

_____
Master, First or Second Officer.

Sworn to before me this _____ day of _____, 19__.

_____
Immigration Inspector.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on plain forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, but shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes of alien members of crews from ports shall not be delivered on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an alternate address is given, a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the name of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the position which they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and such description of those to be landed and discharged in the port of arrival, or lists containing no mention of such information as the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with any information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of her departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been so employed and discharged, and of the cause of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the said lists of such aliens originally reported, respectively, or as to any further such changes of the employees of the vessel. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of Labor, pursuant to the collection of charges of the character in this section provided for, to prescribe such rules and regulations governing the preparation of the said lists as he may deem necessary, and any master, agent, consignee, or master who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10 for each alien concerning whom correct information is not furnished, or in the case of failure to report the illegal landing of any alien, a sum equal to the commutation head tax provided for such case, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such questions upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

7. A clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the list required by section 38 of the Act of February 5, 1917, have been furnished and not then unless notice of inability to the administrative fine prescribed by said section or to that prescribed by section 35 of this act have been waived, the deposit specified in rule 53 has been made.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS APPROVED MAY 26, 1924

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, except temporarily for the purpose of receiving medical treatment, or because of illness arising during the period of the vessel's stay in port, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except for such period and under such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the medical examination of such alien seamen and for the detention and vise of those certified by the medical officers to be suffering from a contagious disease. Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States who is certified by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service at the port of arrival for examination as afflicted with any of the following diseases, namely, trachoma, leprosy, active tuberculosis, cholera, yellow fever, smallpox, or typhus fever, shall be detained on board or at quarantine as the medical officer in charge may direct. Any alien seaman who fails to obtain on board any alien seaman employed on board any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has in accord such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner) or who fails to obtain such seaman on board after such inspection or to obtain such seaman if rejected by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor on appeal, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $ 1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the deposit with and direction of the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of the amount approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not obtain upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master, or such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or depart after treatment by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seamen he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

The Attorney General may, in his discretion, remit any fine or penalty in excess of $30 imposed pursuant to this section.

Every alien seaman who remains in the United States for a period in excess of that granted him by the immigration officer at the time of his application for admission, or any extension thereof granted by the Attorney General, shall be deemed to be a person who has entered the United States without inspection within the purview of section 212 (a) (19) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. (a) Alien seamen employed upon any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place in the West Indies, Mexico, Central America, Canada, Newfoundland, or Miquelon, or arriving at a terminal in such territories from any foreign port or place, shall be examined by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival for the purpose of determining whether they belong to any of the classes excluded from admission to the United States. Such examination shall be made before the vessel arriving at the port is admitted to entry, except that the Commissioner may, in his discretion, designate ports at which such examination may be made after the vessel has been admitted to entry. Such examination shall be conducted under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and shall be made without cost to the seamen. Any alien seaman found upon such examination to belong to any of the excluded classes shall be immediately reported to the Commissioner and, pending final action in the case, shall be detained on board or at such station as may be designated by the Commissioner. Any such alien seaman who is not a native of the country to which the vessel on which he arrived belongs, or who has been in the United States for a period of more than five years, shall be deported to the country of which he is a subject, citizen, or native, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, unless the Commissioner shall determine that deportation to such country would be prejudicial to the interests of the United States, in which case the Commissioner may cause him to be deported to any country which he may select that will accept him, at a cost not exceeding the amount which would be expended if he were deported to the country of which he is a subject, citizen, or native. Any alien seaman who is not deported shall be detained on board or at such station as may be designated by the Commissioner until the vessel on which he arrived departs from the United States, or, if destined to remain in the United States, until such time as he is entitled to be admitted or naturalized. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of law, or who shall fail to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel, or who shall fail to present himself for examination before the departure of any such vessel, except in accordance with rules and regulations made by the Commissioner, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, and may be arrested without warrant by any immigrant inspector or any officer or employee of the Service designated by the Commissioner

SEC. 36. That when alleged to any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel in the Immigration Service, and after the arrival of such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to permit such immigration officer to go and remain aboard such vessel while she remains in port, and to have at all times access to every part thereof and to all persons and documents thereon, and such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall deliver to such immigration officer, at the time of the vessel's entry, a complete list of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the nationality, last residence, and intended destination of each alien employed, and such additional information relative thereto as may be required by such officer for the proper administration of the immigration laws. Such list shall be prepared in quadruplicate, and the master shall be required to sign the same and take and subscribe before such officer an oath to the effect that the said list contains a full, true, and correct statement of the matters about which information is required by this section as to all aliens employed on such vessel. Such list shall be prepared in such manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and such additional information relative to such aliens may be required from the master, under oath, as the Commissioner General of Immigration may prescribe. Any master who refuses to deliver such list, or who refuses to answer questions, or to furnish information in relation to the matters about which he is required by this section to answer, or who answers any such question falsely, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and may be excluded from admission into the United States: Provided, That the master of any vessel who fails to deliver such list at the time of the departure of his vessel from a foreign port for the United States shall be liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien concerning whom such information is required but not delivered, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that the master had complied as nearly as practicable with the requirements of this section and that the omission to comply therewith was due to reasonable cause or circumstances beyond the control of the master. Any penalty provided for in this section may be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor in his discretion upon such terms as he shall deem just. (39 Stat. 879; 8 U. S. C. 136.)

SEC. 150.15 Duty of alien employees; when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master thereof has complied with the requirements of section 36 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 880; 8 U. S. C. 171), have been transmitted, but not then unless notice of intention to file such list has been received in the administrative immigration office at the port of departure, and such list has been filed in accordance with section 36 of said Act (39 Stat. 880; 8 U. S. C. 136), and the provisions of section 16 of the Immigration Act of 1924 (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 141), have been complied with, the alleged alien employees have been inspected and examined, or have been duly certified by the American consular officer at the port of departure to be in transit to some foreign country, and the master has been duly certified by the immigration officer at the port of arrival that the vessel is ready to depart. Any alien employed on board any vessel without such inspection and certification, or who fails to depart on the vessel on which he was certified to depart, or who departs on any vessel other than that specified in the certification, shall be deemed to have entered the United States unlawfully and shall be subject to deportation as in the case of other aliens who enter unlawfully. Any master who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such violation occurs, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to accord with the degree of guilt of the master in connection with any such violation, and may remit any penalty in excess of the minimum of $10 for each alien concerning whom such violation occurs when such master shows to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that he had reasonable cause to believe that the persons concerning whom such violation occurred were not aliens, or that he had complied as nearly as practicable with the requirements of this section, or that the vessel on which such alien arrived was forced into port by stress of weather or other cause beyond the master's control. The payment of any penalty mitigated or remitted by the Attorney General shall be a full discharge of the lien for such penalty. (43 Stat. 164–165; 28 Stat. 878; 8 U. S. C. 137 (a), 137 (c).)

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the Immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, who fails to depart on such vessel when she departs, or who departs from the United States on any vessel other than that on which he arrived, or who lands in Canada, Mexico, Cuba, or adjacent islands, or who is found on board any vessel after she has left the United States, shall be deported to the country whence he came to the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the Immigration Act of 1924, unless the master, owner, agent, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall pay to the collector of customs a sum sufficient to cover such expense, to be determined by the Secretary of Labor. Any alien seaman who, after having been granted shore leave, remains beyond the period of such leave, or who violates the conditions of such leave, shall be deported to the country whence he came to the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the Immigration Act of 1924, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or steamship company which paid the passage of such alien to the United States shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of said fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover said fine, or in the case of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such fine, or cancel any deportation proceedings in respect of whom such failure occurs. (48 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

(48 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, who refuses to perform any duty required of him by the master, officers, or any other seaman of such vessel, or who commits any assault upon any master, officer, or seaman of such vessel, or who incites or attempts to incite any other seaman to refuse to perform any duty required of him by the master, officers, or any other seaman of such vessel, or who commits any violation of the immigration laws of the United States, may be arrested upon the warrant of any commissioner, or United States magistrate judge, or judge of any court of the United States, without process, and may be detained on board his vessel or in such port jail as the immigration officer in charge of the port may designate, pending the completion of the removal of such alien from the United States in pursuance of law. Any such alien who refuses to perform any duty required of him by the master, officers, or any other seaman of such vessel, or who incites or attempts to incite any other seaman to refuse to perform any such duty, or who commits any assault upon any master, officer, or seaman of such vessel, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, and shall thereafter be deported as provided in this section. Any such alien who shall have been previously deported from the United States and returned thereto, and who shall thereafter be found on board any vessel arriving at any port of the United States, shall be deported as provided in this section, and may be punished by imprisonment for not more than two years, in the discretion of the court.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That when written or printed instructions in charge of the port of arrival shall be given to the master, owner, consignee, or master of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place, it shall be the duty of the master, owner, consignee, or master to deliver to each alien immigrant listed on the vessel's manifest a card furnished by the Immigration Service, the same to be filled out and signed by each such alien immigrant in the manner directed, and to be produced by each such alien immigrant at the time of inspection before being admitted to the United States or detained on board for further examination. The physical and mental examination of aliens arriving in the United States shall be conducted with due regard for the public health and safety and the aliens' welfare. Such examination shall be made by medical officers of the United States Public Health Service, who shall certify in writing the physical and mental condition of each alien immigrant and the class of each certificate issued. Such certificates shall be considered by immigration officers in charge of ports of arrival in the United States as prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. Any alien immigrant who is certified by the medical officers to be suffering from a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease shall be detained at the expense of the owner of the vessel upon which he arrives until he is certified by the medical officers of the Public Health Service to be no longer a menace to the health of the United States, unless the owner of the vessel shall furnish a bond in such sum as may be required by the Secretary of the Treasury, but not exceeding $1,000, with sufficient sureties, conditioned that such alien immigrant shall not become a public charge within three years after the date of his arrival in the United States, and in default of the giving of such bond the master, owner, consignee, or agent of the vessel upon which such alien immigrant arrives shall pay a tax of $8 for each alien immigrant not admitted into the United States. Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the admission of any alien immigrant who is a citizen of the United States or who is entitled to admission under existing treaties relating to immigration. Any alien immigrant who shall come in violation of any of the provisions of this section shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. Any person who shall bring to the United States any alien immigrant who is afflicted with any of the diseases mentioned in this section, or who shall bring to the United States any alien immigrant who has been deported under the provisions of this section, unless with the written consent of the Secretary of Labor, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the application of this section to any alien immigrant who is otherwise admissible, except that no such waiver shall be granted in favor of any alien who has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, other than a purely political offense, or who seeks admission to the United States solely, principally, or incidentally for the purpose of engaging in any unlawful business. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That alien arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival a list containing the names of all alien members of such vessel, stating the nationality, last permanent residence, and intended future permanent residence of each such alien member, and the immigration officer in charge of the port shall have the right to temporarily detain such alien members on board such vessel or at such port for such length of time as may be necessary for the purpose of examining into the facts of the case of each such alien member. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who shall refuse to deliver such list, or who shall refuse to allow any such immigration officer to go on board of such vessel for the purpose of examining such list, or who shall refuse to detain on board such vessel any such alien member when requested so to do by such immigration officer, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each such offense, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any such master, agent, consignee, or owner may appeal from the decision of such immigration officer to the Secretary of Labor, whose decision shall be final. If any such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall bring to the United States any alien who is excluded from admission to the United States by the terms of this Act, and such alien shall be allowed to land, such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall pay a tax of $10 for each such alien so landed, which shall be a lien upon the vessel, and may be recovered from such master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof in the manner provided for the recovery of head taxes. If any such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall refuse or neglect to pay such tax, the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located shall withhold clearance for the vessel, and in case of the failure of such master, agent, consignee, or owner to pay the same for a period of two years after the same shall become due, the vessel may be seized and sold to pay the tax. Provided, That clearance may be granted any vessel prior to the payment of such tax upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such tax, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such tax or any part thereof, or authorize the payment thereof in installments, if he is satisfied that such action is warranted by the circumstances of the case. (43 Stat. 154; 8 U. S. C. 102.)

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States with any alien coming to the United States (except an alien crewman employed on such vessel duly vised for the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and who intends to depart immediately on board such vessel), shall cause such alien to be detained on board such vessel at such port of arrival, pending examination by the medical officer of the public health service, unless such alien presents a passport and visa, if required by law, and a certificate of a recent medical examination by a medical officer in the employ of the Government of the country in which such alien has his permanent residence, or in which he has resided for a period of more than six months immediately prior to his departure for the United States, or by a medical officer of the United States Government at the port of departure, which certificate shall show that such alien has been found to be free from mental and physical defects, except such as may be specified in the Immigration Act of 1924 (43 Stat. 153; 8 U. S. C. 201 et seq.), or any subsequent Act or Acts excluding aliens from admission into the United States, or that such defects have been certified in accordance with section 3 of the Act of February 16, 1929 (45 Stat. 1171; 8 U. S. C. 136g). Such certificate shall be forwarded by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization at Washington, District of Columbia. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, or authorize the payment thereof upon the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof in such amount as he may deem sufficient, conditioned upon the production of such alien before the immigration officer at the port of arrival within a period of four months from the date of the deposit of such bond, for examination by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, and upon the submission by such alien to such medical examination. SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a complete list of the crew, showing the position therein of each member thereof, and shall not permit any change to be made in such list or in the crew except with the approval of the immigrant inspector. Any master who knowingly fails to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each offense. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the charges against it, and the payment of any fine imposed upon the master shall be a condition precedent to the granting of clearance papers. Upon the refusal or failure of the master to pay any fine imposed upon him under the provisions of this section, the collector of customs is authorized and directed to withhold the clearance papers of the vessel on which such master shall have sailed or attempted to sail, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such fine has been paid or its payment satisfactorily guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(a) Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who knowingly fails to report the illegal landing of any alien, or who knowingly brings to the United States any alien not duly admitted by an immigrant inspector, or who knowingly fails to detain on board his vessel any alien who has been ordered by an immigrant inspector to be detained on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival, and such alien shall not be permitted to land in the United States except upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor that the testimony of such master, agent, consignee, or owner is not necessary in the prosecution of criminal charges against any person, or that such testimony cannot be obtained, and such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom a report should have been made but was not made as above required, and to imprisonment for not more than one year: Provided, That clearance papers may be granted by the Attorney General upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, not exceeding $1,000, and costs and expenses of collection, which sum may be remitted in whole or in part if it appear that no unlawful act has been committed by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel. Any fine imposed upon the master of a vessel may be collected by the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located from any moneys belonging to such master on board the vessel, and the vessel may be detained for the payment of such fine. Any such fine not remitted may be recovered in the name of the United States in any court of competent jurisdiction.

(b) Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Panama Canal Zone, or any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Panama Canal Zone, or any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Republic of Cuba from which the carriage of aliens to the United States is prohibited by section 19 of this Act, who knowingly violates any of the provisions of section 19 of this Act, or who knowingly brings to the United States any alien who has been refused a visa, or who knowingly brings to the United States any alien who has been deported under the provisions of this Act, or who knowingly brings to the United States any alien who has been excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien so brought, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has been employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, or injury requiring treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States, or for the departure of such alien on board the vessel or aircraft on which he arrived or some other vessel or aircraft sailing to a foreign country other than adjacent territory, unless security is furnished by such alien or the master of such vessel or aircraft in such amount, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, as the Attorney General may require, conditioned upon the departure of such alien seaman on board the vessel or aircraft on which he arrived or some other vessel or aircraft sailing to a foreign country other than adjacent territory, or upon the certification by the medical examiners, at the time of departure, that such alien seaman is unable to depart on board such vessel or aircraft because of illness or injury requiring treatment. Before any such alien seaman is granted hospital treatment in lieu of deportation, security may be required in such amount, not exceeding $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, as the Attorney General may deem sufficient to secure the payment thereof. The section as amended shall apply to all deportable aliens irrespective of when such report as the Attorney General may require, or to pay the collector of customs the cost of such maintenance and treatment, not to exceed $1.50 per day, pending such departure, or pending certification by the medical examiners, that such alien seaman is able to depart, or pending the completion of any hearing before the Attorney General in connection therewith, shall be paid by the master of the vessel on which he arrived to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, remit such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Upon such remission, mitigation, or cancellation, the vessel may be granted clearance.

The section as amended shall apply to all deportable aliens arriving subsequent to June 2, 1924.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily by the immigration officer at the Attorney General, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after readmittance by the immigration officer at the master of such vessel as a deserter

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck, or other casualty, or by special permission of the Secretary of Labor, and then only under such conditions as he may prescribe, to secure the object of the permit, and when the purpose for which landing was permitted has been accomplished, such alien seaman shall forthwith be deported in the manner provided in the immigration laws in the case of aliens arriving in the United States as members of the crews of vessels. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except from any foreign contiguous territory, shall be responsible for the proper conduct while in the United States of every alien seaman employed on such vessel, and for the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a complete list of such alien seamen employed on board such vessel, showing the name in full, age, last permanent residence, nationality, and port at which shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be landed and those to remain on board, and the reasons therefor. Such list shall be produced and subscribed under oath before the immigration officer at the time of the vessel's arrival at the first port of entry in the United States, and any additions to or deletions from such list, and the reasons therefor, shall be reported under oath to such officer at the time of the vessel's departure from each port in the United States. Such list shall be in such form and contain such particulars as the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, shall prescribe. Any such owner, agent, consignee, or master who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this section shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers during the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except after clearance papers have been paid for in the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all territories mainly unpeopled on June 2, 1924.

(b) Front first an alien seaman did not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or from any territory by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after lawful requirement by the immigration officer at the expense of such vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall cease to be liable for such expense if the master establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that he has complied with the provisions of section 20 (a) of this Act with respect to such alien seaman and that he has been unable to secure his deportation, and that he has no reason to believe that the owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or master of such vessel has connived at or been accessory to the desertion of such alien seaman.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of the length of time he has resided in the United States, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be fined for such expense until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from the United States, its territories, and possessions other than the Panama Canal Zone, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the United States Virgin Islands) shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or temporarily on account of unavoidable delay, or for the purpose of obtaining the services of a master or seaman specially required, or because of the necessity for bona fide repairs to the vessel, or for such other reasons as may be approved by the Attorney General, and then only under such conditions as he may prescribe: Provided, That nothing contained in this section shall be construed to prevent any alien seaman from entering the United States for the purpose of temporary visit or for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or because of the necessity for bona fide repairs to the vessel upon which he arrived, or for such other reasons as may be approved by the Attorney General, and then only under such conditions as he may prescribe: Provided further, That any alien seaman entering the United States for the purpose of temporary visit shall be required to post a bond with sufficient surety, in such sum and under such conditions as the Attorney General may prescribe, to insure that he will depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel, except in case of sickness or accident or other cause beyond his control, and that he will not become a public charge: And provided further, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the provisions of this section in favor of any alien seaman who has been employed on a vessel touching at ports of the United States for a period of twelve months or more prior to his application for admission into the United States, and who is otherwise admissible under the immigration laws.

(As amended Aug. 9, 1939, c. 606, 53 Stat. 1284; Oct. 14, 1940, c. 876, Title III, § 305, 54 Stat. 1161; June 30, 1948, c. 775, § 2, 62 Stat. 1161; Aug. 10, 1954, c. 656, 68 Stat. 748.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from the United States, its territories, and possessions other than the Panama Canal Zone, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the United States Virgin Islands) to which alien seamen are destined, shall be permitted to land in the United States except upon the certificate of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that each alien seaman has been given a medical examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service (which examination in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical officer), and that such alien seaman is not afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities set forth in section 212 of this Act which would be a ground for the exclusion of such alien seaman from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and has complied with all the documentary requirements of this Act and regulations made thereunder.

(b) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from the United States, its territories, and possessions other than the Panama Canal Zone, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the United States Virgin Islands) who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has given notice to the master or agent of the vessel that such alien seaman may be landed, or who fails to detain such alien seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection of to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect to whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such liability upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty in such manner as may be warranted by the circumstances of each case. Any fine imposed under this section, as finally determined, shall be a lien upon the vessel to which the alien seaman was attached, and clearance may be withheld or the vessel may be libeled for the fine. The Attorney General may, upon request of the master, remit any fine imposed under this section if it is established to his satisfaction that the seaman was not employed contrary to law.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport alien seamen as herein required, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of the fine provided for in this section, as in the case of a vessel which has violated the provisions of the immigration laws. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require the detention of any vessel as a result of the refusal of any seaman to proceed to sea in her if, in the opinion of the master, such seaman is not competent or physically fit to proceed to sea in such vessel.

(d) Every alien seaman shall depart to a foreign port or place if able to do so when required by the master, or when ordered by the Attorney General, and shall not be entitled to land temporarily or permanently at any port or place in the United States unless destined thereto or compelled to land by reason of illness, shipwreck, or other cause not within the control of the master, or unless granted a permit to land temporarily as a witness or for other cause by the Attorney General, but shall be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of other aliens. Any alien seaman who fails or refuses to depart when required shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall be deported upon the warrant of the Attorney General as provided in this section.

(g) Any master who knowingly lands or attempts to land any alien seaman at any port or place in the United States, or who refuses to detain any such seaman on board any vessel when requested so to do by any immigration officer, or who refuses to deliver any such seaman to the custody of any immigration officer when requested so to do, or who refuses to pay the hospital dues or other charges for the maintenance of any such seaman in a hospital, or who refuses to pay the expenses of any such seaman while in the custody of any immigration officer, or who refuses to pay the cost of his passage to the port to which he is destined, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each such offense.

(h) Any master who fails to report the illness or death of any seaman, or who fails to deliver to the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival the certificate issued to any such seaman pursuant to the provisions of this section, or who fails to deliver to any such officer any such certificate which has been taken up from any such seaman, or who fails to make a report or to deliver to any such officer any such certificate which has been issued to any such seaman who has been left behind on account of illness, or who fails to report the cause of death of any such seaman and produce his certificate, or who fails to deliver to the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which such seaman arrived the certificate issued to such seaman, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each such offense.

(j) Any master who fails to deliver to the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival information concerning any seaman who has been employed on board his vessel at any time during the period of his service thereon, or who refuses to permit any such officer to make such examination as may be necessary to obtain such information, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each such offense.

(k) Any master who fails to deliver to the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival the certificate issued to any seaman pursuant to the provisions of this section, or who fails to make a report or to deliver to any such officer any such certificate which has been issued to any such seaman who has been left behind on account of illness, or who fails to report the cause of death of any such seaman and produce his certificate, or who fails to deliver to the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which such seaman arrived the certificate issued to such seaman, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each such offense.

(m) Any master who refuses to permit any immigration officer to board the vessel at the time of its arrival for the purpose of inspecting the crew, or who refuses to deliver to such officer any certificate issued to any seaman pursuant to the provisions of this section, or who refuses to make a report or to deliver to any such officer any such certificate which has been issued to any such seaman who has been left behind on account of illness, or who fails to report the cause of death of any such seaman and produce his certificate, or who fails to deliver to the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which such seaman arrived the certificate issued to such seaman, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each such offense.

(o) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport alien seamen as herein required, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of the fine provided for in this section, as in the case of a vessel which has violated the provisions of the immigration laws. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require the detention of any vessel as a result of the refusal of any seaman to proceed to sea in her if, in the opinion of the master, such seaman is not competent or physically fit to proceed to sea in such vessel.

(p) Every alien seaman shall depart to a foreign port or place if able to do so when required by the master, or when ordered by the Attorney General, and shall not be entitled to land temporarily or permanently at any port or place in the United States unless destined thereto or compelled to land by reason of illness, shipwreck, or other cause not within the control of the master, or unless granted a permit to land temporarily as a witness or for other cause by the Attorney General, but shall be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of other aliens. SEC. 3. That aliens arriving at ports of the United States from any foreign port or place in the Panama Canal Zone or the island possessions of the United States, and seeking admission thereto, whether they come as a result of the owners' agents previously arranged for or otherwise, and whether they have been in the United States before or not, and whether they are in possession of unused portions of tickets previously issued to them or not, and whether they have been in transit through the United States to foreign countries or not, and whether they are destined to the United States or not, shall be required to establish that they are not excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws, and for that purpose they shall be required to answer such questions touching their right to admission as may be asked by the immigrant inspector, and to subscribe and take oath to the truth of their answers to such questions before the said inspector. Said inspector shall have power to administer oaths and to take and consider evidence touching the right of any such alien to admission, and may, in his discretion, call for the production of books, papers, or documents touching the right of any such alien to admission. Said inspector shall have power to require by subpena the attendance and testimony of witnesses before him touching the right of any such alien to admission, and to require production by such witnesses of books, papers, or documents touching the right of any such alien to admission. Witnesses summoned before such inspector shall be allowed the same fees as are allowed witnesses attending courts of the United States, which fees shall be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. In case of the refusal of any person to obey such subpena, or to answer any question touching the right of any such alien to admission, the district court of the United States for the district in which such person may be found shall have jurisdiction, upon application by the said inspector, after notice to such person, to issue an order requiring such person to appear and testify or produce such books, papers, or documents, and upon his refusal to obey such order he may be punished by such court as and for a contempt thereof.

SEC. 16. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws may be employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from a place outside thereof, or transferred to any other vessel in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained on board or at a station to which said alien may be transferred pursuant to the provisions of section 30 of this Act, until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall certify that such alien seaman has been cleared. (8 USC 144; 8 F. R. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Upon such remission the Attorney General in the direction shall refund the difference.

This section as amended shall apply to all vessels arriving subsequent to June 2, 1921.

(d) Every fine or alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport after requirement by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than a subject or citizen of a foreign country contiguous to the United States, or a seaman employed on board a vessel touching only at ports on the islands of the Atlantic Ocean adjacent to the United States), shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or the necessity of secreting himself to escape persecution, until the vessel on board which he arrived shall depart or be ready to depart for some foreign port or place, and the cost of his maintenance while on shore and of his return on board may be required by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and a sufficient sum of money to defray the cost of such maintenance and return may be required to be deposited with the collector of customs of the port by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which such alien arrived, or by the alien himself, before the vessel leaves the port. Any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer who refuses to deposit or to give security for the deposit of such sum when required so to do, or who refuses to pay the cost of such maintenance and return, shall be liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien with respect to whom such refusal occurs. Such penalty may be sued for and recovered by the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located, in the name of the United States, and the sum so recovered shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. Any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer who refuses to deposit or to give security for the deposit of such sum when required so to do, or who refuses to pay the cost of such maintenance and return, shall be liable to a penalty of $10 for each day during which such refusal continues, which penalty may be sued for and recovered by the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located, in the name of the United States, and the sum so recovered shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. Such sum shall not be remitted or refunded: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of such sum with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located, or upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety or sureties, to be approved by such collector, in such sum as the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization may require, conditioned upon the payment of such sum when the question of the liability to the payment thereof shall have been determined by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization or the Board of Special Inquiry: Provided further, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of such sum, or the giving of a bond with sufficient surety or sureties, as above provided, in the case of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has reason to believe that such alien is subject to deportation under section 19 hereof. Clearance shall not be granted in any case prior to the completion of the physical examination of the alien by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service at the port of arrival, except as otherwise provided by regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Clearance may be granted prior to the completion of the examination of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has reason to believe that such alien is subject to certain mental or physical defects, or to be afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, or that he is otherwise inadmissible under the provisions of this Act, other than those provisions which may be waived by the Secretary of Labor upon the recommendation of the Public Health Service. Clearance may be granted prior to the completion of the examination of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has reason to believe that such alien is subject to certain mental or physical defects, or to be afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, or that he is otherwise inadmissible under the provisions of this Act, other than those provisions which may be waived by the Secretary of Labor upon the recommendation of the Public Health Service, pending the determination of such question upon deposit of sum sufficient to cover such fine. SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States (except adjacent islands as the Attorney General may prescribe for the purposes of this section) or arriving from any place in the United States destined to any place outside the United States (except adjacent islands as aforesaid), shall be granted clearance papers until the master of such vessel has delivered to the immigrant officer in charge at the port of departure a list containing the name, nationality, last known permanent address, calling, and port of embarkation of each such alien seaman employed on board, and has certified to the correctness of such list. Such list shall be prepared in quadruplicate, and the master shall be required to deliver the original and duplicate to the immigrant officer at the port of departure, who shall certify the duplicate and return it to the master for the use of the collector of customs at the port of first arrival in the United States. The triplicate shall be delivered by the master to the collector of customs at the port of first arrival in the United States. The quadruplicate shall be retained by the master of the vessel and produced on demand to any immigrant officer or collector of customs. Any master who shall refuse or fail to deliver such list, certified as herein required, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman not listed. Any master who shall refuse or fail to deliver for each alien seaman not listed on such list a valid passport visaed by a consular officer, or other document required by section 10 of the Act of May 22, 1924, entitling such alien seaman to enter the United States, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman. Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States (except adjacent islands as aforesaid) who shall refuse to submit to examination by any immigrant officer, or who shall refuse or fail to comply with any of the requirements of the immigration laws relative to aliens entering the United States, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of the Act of May 22, 1924, as amended, unless he shall waive examination by special inquiry before a board of special inquiry and establish to the satisfaction of such board of special inquiry that he is not affected by any of the classes of aliens ineligible to admission to the United States under the immigration laws. Any alien seaman who shall remain in the United States after the vessel on which he arrived has departed without the permission of the immigration officers in charge at the port of arrival shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of the Act of May 22, 1924, as amended. Any alien seaman who shall fail to report for deportation or who cannot be found within a reasonable time for deportation shall be deemed to have remained unlawfully in the United States for the purpose of the penalty provisions of section 10 of the Act of May 22, 1924, as amended. Any alien seaman who shall land temporarily in Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, or Panama, or adjacent islands, shall be required to secure a new permit upon his return to the United States. Any alien seaman who shall desert while in the United States shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of the Act of May 22, 1924, as amended. Any alien seaman who shall fail to report the loss of his certificate of identification within five days after such loss shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100 for each offense. Any alien seaman who shall fail or refuse to depart from the United States when required to do so by the Attorney General, or his authorized agent, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any master who shall refuse or fail to deliver any alien seaman employed on board his vessel at the time of departure of such vessel from a port of the United States, unless such alien seaman shall have been granted permission to land temporarily by an immigrant officer or unless security shall have been given for the return of such alien seaman, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman. Any master who shall refuse or fail to deliver any alien seaman employed on board his vessel at the time of departure of such vessel from a port of the United States for any other foreign port, unless such alien seaman shall have been granted permission to land temporarily by an immigrant officer or unless security shall have been given for the return of such alien seaman, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman. SEC. 36. That aliens arriving at any seaport in the United States from any foreign port or from a port in the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands, shall be examined by the immigrant inspectors at the port of entry as to whether they belong to any of the classes excluded by law. Such examinations shall be made only after the physical examination provided for in section 37 of this Act, and shall be conducted in the presence of the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel bringing the alien to the United States, or his representative, unless such master, agent, owner, consignee, or representative fails to attend, after reasonable notice has been given him of the time and place of such examination. Such examinations shall be conducted separately and apart from any other examination that may be required by any other provision of this Act or by any other law or laws regulating the admission of aliens to the United States, and shall take precedence over all other examinations of aliens arriving at such port. Such examinations shall be conducted in the order in which the vessels on which the aliens arrive are inspected and passed by the quarantine officials, except that vessels bringing aliens who have been certified by the United States Public Health Service as suffering from a dangerous contagious disease shall be inspected before vessels which have been certified as not having on board any such disease, irrespective of the order in which they arrive. Such examinations shall be conducted in such manner as to afford all aliens a reasonable opportunity to present evidence material to their admissibility and to protect them from unreasonable detention. Such examinations shall be conducted fairly, impartially, and humanely, and shall be completed as expeditiously as the circumstances will permit. Immigrant inspectors shall have power to administer oaths and to take and consider evidence touching the admissibility of any alien who may be examined, and may, in their discretion, require the testimony of any such alien to be taken down in writing. Any person who knowingly makes under oath any false statement in the testimony so taken down in writing shall be deemed guilty of perjury and shall be punished accordingly. SEC. 17. Aliens employed on vessels.—No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of liability to the payment of the head tax imposed by this Act (39 Stat. 890; 8 U. S. C. 151), unless such vessel shall pay, in addition to such head tax, the sum of $10 for each alien employed on board such vessel at the time of the departure of such vessel from the United States, and the payment of such sum may be enforced by the Secretary of Labor in the manner provided for the enforcement of the payment of such head tax. (39 Stat. 890; 8 U. S. C. 152.)

(a) Penalty for failure to deport alien seamen.—Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to deport any alien seaman employed on such vessel when ordered to do so by the Secretary of Labor, or any person duly authorized by him for that purpose, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such refusal or neglect, and such penalty shall be a lien upon such vessel, which may be enforced by proceedings in rem in the district court of the United States for the district within which such vessel may be found. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, remit or mitigate any penalty provided for in this section or any part thereof upon such terms as he may deem just. (43 Stat. 164–165; 8 U. S. C. 169.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel has departed or will depart before such alien seaman can be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel, the Attorney General may grant clearance until such vessel returns to a port of the United States if such alien seaman be produced by the master of such vessel when required for the deportation of such alien seaman, or if such vessel fails to return to a port of the United States within such time as the Attorney General may prescribe, the master of such vessel shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port of departure is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of liability to payment of such sum, or while the case is pending an appeal from the decision of the Attorney General. IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall be in addition to any manifest or list of passengers required to be prepared by the master. When an alternate nonalien is a "nonimmigrant" a position to that effect should be made on the manifest. The use of checkmarks or ditto marks for indicating nonalien status is not permissible. Failure to list any alien passenger will result in the imposition of the penalty provided by law. Attention is directed to the necessity for the master to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival the completed and signed crew list required by section 251 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1221). Any change, addition, or correction made in the crew list after the vessel has cleared from the last foreign port must be noted on the list by the master before delivery to the immigration officer at the port of arrival in the United States.

Any person who shall bring to the United States any alien seaman who is excluded from admission into the United States under the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

Any such seaman who is afterwards found on shore without such certificate, except when on account of illness he has been granted hospital treatment, or because of shipwreck, may be arrested without warrant and shall be taken before the commissioner of immigration at the port of arrival and deported in the same manner as provided in the case of aliens who have entered the United States in violation of law.
